Public Works Bill Approved

House Passes $5.5 Billion Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ignoring hints of a presidential veto, the House has approved a $5.5-billion public works and construction program offered as part of the Democratic plan for boosting the economy.

By a vote of 319 to 67, the House sent to the Senate Thursday a bill authorizing $2 billion for public-works projects in depressed areas; extending special programs for Appalachia and other regions for four years at a cost of $1.54 billion, and earmarking $1.95 billion for upgrading local economies with loans and construction aid.

Meanwhile, a House Labor subcommittee approved a bill providing $4 billion to create public-service jobs for the unemployed over the next five years. The bill is similar to one vetoed by President Nixon last year.

The subcommittee vote was along party lines with Republicans opposing the measure—another in the Democratic package of alternatives to Nixon's program.

The Senate has passed a similar jobs bill. The House version would create up to 200,000 jobs in hospitals, parks, schools and other public-service areas.

Before the final vote on the $5.5-billion bill, Republicans tried to block inclusion of the $2 billion for accelerating public-works construction in financially blighted areas. They hinted the President might veto the entire bill because of that provision.

They lost on a 262-128 roll call.

Under the program, based on a 1962 law, the federal government could finance as much as 100 per cent of the cost of public-works projects in areas having or threatened by 6 per cent unemployment, or in areas with unusually high unemployment of Vietnam war veterans.

Hailstorm Hits Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A severe thunderstorm, 80-mile-an-hour winds and two-inch hailstones pounded the Memphis area today, heavily damaging rooftops, blowing cars into ditches and overturning at least 38 small planes at the city's airport.

Authorities said 12 persons, some of them cut by flying glass, were treated at hospitals for minor injuries and released. Paul Stillions, president of Hi-Air Inc., said damage to the 22 planes at his firm alone was in excess of a quarter-million dollars.

A hangar under construction collapsed with the loss of another $40,000, he said. The suburban Germantown area also reported heavy damage to homes by fallen trees, but no injuries.

Red China Issue To Be Waterloo For Spiro Agnew?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The political future of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew remains very much in doubt following his reported uneasiness about President Nixon's new approach toward broader travel and trade relations with China.

The White House officially says Nixon has full confidence in Agnew, but one source in the executive mansion has suggested that the vice president had ended his usefulness to Nixon by challenging the administration's new China policy.

Other White House sources emphasized that Nixon's move to ease relations with Peking was not a sudden decision—that the President had long felt the United States should renew ties to the mainland severed more than two decades ago.

At the moment, Agnew might seem to be isolated inside the administration councils on the China question.

Haiti Calm After Death Of Duvalier

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Despite widespread doubt that it would last, calm prevailed throughout Haiti today following the death of President Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier.

His 19-year-old son and successor, Jean-Claude Duvalier, had the announced public support of the armed forces and most of the country's top leaders—at least for the time being. Although young Duvalier appointed a new Cabinet Thursday, many observers in this politically turbulent black nation of five million persons believed a ruling "family council" had a strong grip on the country's affairs.

Max Dominique, the dead president's son-in-law and the man considered most likely to wield behind-the-scenes power in the new regime, was not mentioned in the Cabinet shuffle but was noticeably prominent in the grieving family circle.

Dominique and his strong-willed wife Marie Denise are considered by most political observers to be the true rulers in view of Jean-Claude's youth and political inexperience.

In Washington, the Pentagon announced increased naval and air surveillance in the area. Sources said the U.S. action is designed to insure that nearby Cuba will not take advantage of any possible political turmoil in Haiti.

Ohio Air Force Colonel Is Killed

By TAHLMAN KRUMM Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The State Controlling Board bailed the Ohio Department of Welfare out of hot water Thursday by releasing $6.3 million to help meet May welfare bills.

State William P. Rogers went out of his way earlier this week to counter Agnew's reported statements about Nixon's policy decisions.

Sen. Robert J. Dole of Kansas, Republican national chairman, told newsmen Thursday night the decision to allow the table tennis team to accept the invitation to visit China was "obviously well thought out."

"As the President said about this," Dole told a news conference preceding a GOP fundraising dinner in the Philadelphia suburb of Springfield, "there is more to it than meets the eye."

The party chairman said he did not think there was a rift between Nixon and Agnew.

Agnew was quoted as saying after sessions at Williamsburg, Va., Monday with reporters and Republican governors that he felt the Chinese had scored a propaganda breakthrough by virtue of the visit there by representatives of the U.S. Table Tennis Association.

Further, he was said to have argued, Nixon's new efforts to be conciliatory toward Peking would undercut the position of the Nationalist Chinese on Taiwan.

Nixon, it was learned, hopes to welcome Communist Chinese table tennis players to the United States in the relatively near future.

He has even said he would like to go to Peking or another major mainland city himself.

Spiro T. Agnew has yet to express the like longing—which may or may not be relevant to his political longevity.

OSU Disruption Rules Challenged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The constitutionality of Ohio State University's disruption rules was challenged Thursday in a suit filed in U.S. District Court here.

They asked that the rules be nullified and that any suspensions, dismissals or other punishment resulting from them be voided.

Withdrawal Date Pushed By Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic party, responding to President Nixon in a nationwide broadcast, says negotiation after a date for withdrawal of American troops is announced is the only realistic way to ensure release of U.S. prisoners of war.

"But under no circumstances would our prisoners be abandoned if these negotiations failed to produce the result we believe is possible," Democratic National Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien said Thursday night in summing up positions taken by six Democratic senators.

The six, all considered likely candidates for president, criticized various aspects of Nixon administration war policy. They agreed Nixon should set a firm date for total withdrawal. Only Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington opposed Congress imposing such a deadline.

"If I thought that legislating a publicly announced deadline would hasten an end to the conflict or the release of our prisoners I would advocate such a policy," Jackson said in an ABC radio-television broadcast supplied for a reply to Nixon's April 7 speech announcing withdrawal of 100,000 more troops from Vietnam.

Jackson called for a full diplomatic effort for a cease-fire, and urged the Nixon administration provide a full and continuous public accounting of the war.

Other senators on the program were Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, Birch Bayh of Indiana, George McGovern of South Dakota, Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Humphrey, who lost the 1968 presidential race to Nixon after running a campaign of general support for Johnson administration war policies, said:

"The change in my views has come slowly—with changing circumstances and our understanding of them—and it has come with considerable heartache. But it has come for me and for millions of other Americans."

"After almost two decades of American assistance, I believe our commitments to the South Vietnamese now have been more than fulfilled."

Veterans Enter Final Day Of Washington Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — After a victory over the Nixon administration and a silent candlelight march on the White House, the Vietnam Veterans Against the War today began their final day of war protest at the capital.

The veterans planned to turn back medals they won in combat to cap their four-day campaign, a prelude to massive anti-war rallies planned by other groups for the weekend.

Thursday's climax came when U.S. District Court Judge George L. Hart lifted his ban against the vets sleeping on the Mall and lashed the administration for first seeking the ban and then failing to enforce it. "These men are men who have served their country honorably," said Asst. Atty. Gen. L. Patrick Gray III in explaining the administration's switch. He also noted that the vets have been orderly and peaceful.

Judge Hart, scowling and shouting, told Gray "this court feels that one equal and coordinate branch of government, the judiciary, has been dangerously and improperly used by another, the executive."

"You have put the veterans in the position of openly defying the laws and the courts of this country," added Hart, himself a decorated veteran of World War II.

Hart issued the original no-sleeping order, a three-judge court reversed it, and the Justice Department took the case to the Supreme Court, which upheld the ban. But when the vets defied the court by sleeping on the Mall Wednesday night officials made no move to disturb them. "Vets Overrule Supreme Court," one Washington newspaper headlined.

Thursday night the veterans and their supporters, estimated by a police lieutenant on the scene at more than 800, marched in a two-hour candlelight procession up Pennsylvania Avenue to the White House.

The increase came after a series of cuts during the last year brought the rate down from a record 8 1/2 per cent.

Connally's criticism failed to deter other banks from joining Chase Manhattan. Banks boosting their rates today included First National City Bank of New York and Manufacturers Hanover of New York, National Bank of Detroit, Cleveland Trust, First Pennsylvania of Philadelphia, First National and Northern Trust of Chicago.

Except For Money Issues, Ohio Faces Dull Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Except for 235 money issues on local ballots, there's little for Ohio voters to be excited about at the May 4 primary.

The threat of new and higher taxes is expected to be enough to attract many to the polls who otherwise might stay away.

Secretary of State Ted Brown says there is no way to forecast the turnout, since many precincts will not hold primaries.

A light vote is probably, however, since this is an off-year primary with no state-wide issues. Only 1.5 million voted in the primary four years ago when the Ohio Bond Commission was defeated. Ohio has 4.3 million eligible voters.

Thirteen municipalities will seek either to raise existing income taxes or install new ones. Voters in Franklin and Lucas counties will vote on two of the larger money measures—bond issues of three mills (for $75,950,000) for Columbus schools and 2.51 mills (for $8.1 million) for Washington schools in Lucas County. Both are for new school construction.

A total of 168 property tax issues will appear on ballots. Most are renewals, but many ask new or additional taxes.

Among the biggest new levies sought are those for the Sandy Valley School District (Stark, Carroll and Tuscarawas counties), 14.3 mills; Marlinton School District (Stark County), 10.4 mills; Southwest Licking School District (Licking and Fairfield counties), 10 mills; Grand Valley School District (Ashtabula County), 10 mills; and the Alliance School District (Stark, Columbiana and Mahoning counties) 9.7 mills.

An Ohio Education Association spokesman said voters in these areas have repeatedly voted down school levies, and that of the five, Grand Valley's predicament is most critical.

Three levy defeats last year left that school system virtually bankrupt, he said. Last November only 23 per cent of those voting approved the levy.

Issues are on the ballot for the sixth time in Martins Ferry (Belmont County) and Newton Falls (Trumbull County).

Major mayoral races are notably lacking, but Youngstown's may be lively.

Republican Mayor Jack Hunter is unopposed in the primary, but five candidates are vying for the Democratic nomination.

They applauded Kerry more than a dozen times as, in the New England tones of his native Waltham, Mass., he denounced two administrations and predicted growing numbers of GI's would refuse to fight unless Congress acts to halt the war.

"There's a GI movement within this country as well as over there," he said. "We're going to change doctors. We're going to take our prescriptions to someone else. We're not going to fight."

Kerry spoke for 30 minutes or so when the hearing opened.

Then, looking each senator straight in the eye, he answered questions with an unhesitating style that brought the responses out in measured paragraphs, not just sentences.

On President Nixon's policy: "What we are trying to do when we talk of getting out with honor is we are trying to whitewash ourselves. You cannot talk about peace when you are arming a people and tell them to go on fighting. That's not peace, that's war."

The request came in a letter from Francis T. Mayo, the agency's Region Director, to Mayor Carl B. Stokes. In the letter Mayo pledged federal support of a metropolitan sewer district run by Cuyahoga County.

Connally Calls Banks' Move 'Disappointing'

NEW YORK (AP) — More banks boosted their prime lending rate today despite a bit of jawboning by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

"Very disappointing," Connally said Thursday immediately after Chase Manhattan Bank of New York initiated the boost to 5 1/2 per cent from 5 1/4 per cent in the interest charged big corporate borrowers.

"I was totally unaware that loan demands had reached such proportions as to justify such an increase," Connally said.

The increase came after a series of cuts during the last year brought the rate down from a record 8 1/2 per cent.

Troop Cuts Continue

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the start of the seventh phase of American troop cutbacks in South Vietnam, a week ahead of President Nixon's timetable. Official sources said the reduction in U.S. forces is running 10,000 to 15,000 men ahead of schedule.

The seventh round was scheduled to begin May 1, but the command announced the stand-down of the 1st Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division, for redeployment to Camp Pendleton, Calif., to rejoin the rest of the division. Departure of the battalion cuts the U.S. strength in Vietnam by 1,155 men.

The remaining 14,600 Marines will be out of Vietnam by the end of June.

Informed sources said it was decided to phase out the 1st Marine Regiment right away because troopships are available now.

Under Nixon's timetable, the sixth phase of cutbacks was scheduled to end next Friday, April 30, with the authorized U.S. strength reduced to 284,000 men. The sources said the total would actually drop to between 274,000 and 269,000 by then, or 10,000 to 15,000 below the target ceiling.

A light vote is probably, however, since this is an off-year primary with no state-wide issues. Only 1.5 million voted in the primary four years ago when the Ohio Bond Commission was defeated. Ohio has 4.3 million eligible voters.

Thirteen municipalities will seek either to raise existing income taxes or install new ones.

Voters in Franklin and Lucas counties will vote on two of the larger money measures — bond issues of three mills (for $75,950,000) for Columbus schools and 2.51 mills (for $8.1 million) for Washington schools in Lucas County. Both are for new school construction.

A total of 168 property tax issues will appear on ballots. Most are renewals, but many ask new or additional taxes.

Among the biggest new levies sought are those for the Sandy Valley School District (Stark, Carroll and Tuscarawas counties), 14.3 mills; Marlinton School District (Stark County), 10.4 mills; Southwest Licking School District (Licking and Fairfield counties), 10 mills; Grand Valley School District (Ashtabula County), 10 mills; and the Alliance School District (Stark, Columbiana and Mahoning counties) 9.7 mills.

An Ohio Education Association spokesman said voters in these areas have repeatedly voted down school levies, and that of the five, Grand Valley's predicament is most critical.

Three levy defeats last year left that school system virtually bankrupt, he said. Last November only 23 per cent of those voting approved the levy.

Issues are on the ballot for the sixth time in Martins Ferry (Belmont County) and Newton Falls (Trumbull County).

Major mayoral races are notably lacking, but Youngstown's may be lively.

Republican Mayor Jack Hunter is unopposed in the primary, but five candidates are vying for the Democratic nomination.

Daylight Time To Return Early Sunday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's almost time to spring forward again — for watches, clocks and other timekeepers.

All clocks in the 46 states are to be pushed forward Sunday one hour for Daylight Savings Time. Michigan and Hawaii will ignore it, as will small pockets of Arizona and Indiana.

The Federal Uniform Time Act of 1966 provides that all states observe DST from 2 a.m. the last Sunday or April until 2 a.m. the last Sunday of October. The law also permits a state legislature to exempt the state.

Hawaii, Michigan, Indiana the last Sunday of April until 2 a.m. that provision. Twelve counties in Indiana, however, will switch from Central Standard Time to Central Daylight Time to bring the state's clocks to the same hour. The rest of the state will remain on Eastern Standard Time.

In Arizona, the huge Navajo Indian reservation will go to Daylight time, while the Hopi and Arizona have taken advantage of the reservation — within the Navajo reservation — will remain on Standard time as will the rest of the state.

Georgia has no legitimate exceptions to the Uniform Time law, but state Rep. Dorsey Matthews of Moultrie has refused to recognize Daylight Savings. He claims it's "Un-Godly" and was designed for the benefit of airlines and golfing playboys.

Shocked Senators Hear Viet Hero Blast War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 27-year-old former Navy lieutenant, his shaggy black hair curling over the collar of his green fatigues, talked in quiet tones of Vietnam horrors carried out by GIs "in the fashion of Ghenghis Khan."

When John Kerry, a Yale law student who heads the Vietnam Veterans Against the War, finished, members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee were nearly speechless.

"You have a Silver Star?" asked Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

"Yes, sir," said Kerry who was wearing the Army's third highest award for valor at the top of four rows of campaign ribbons.

"You have a Purple Heart with two clusters?" asked Symington.

"Yes sir."

"You were wounded three times?"

"Yes, sir."

"I have no further questions," said the senator.

As it has been since the committee opened hearings on proposals to end the war Tuesday, the room was packed with some 120 green-clad veterans, youthful peace demonstrators, tourists.

They applauded Kerry more than a dozen times as, in the New England tones of his native Waltham, Mass., he denounced two administrations and predicted growing numbers of GIs would refuse to fight unless Congress acts to halt the war.

"There's a GI movement within this country as well as over there," he said. "We're going to change doctors. We're going to take our prescriptions to someone else. We're not going to fight."

Kerry spoke for 30 minutes or so when the hearing opened. Then, looking each senator straight in the eye, he answered questions with an unhesitating style that brought the responses out in measured paragraphs, not just sentences.

On President Nixon's policy: "What we are trying to do when we talk of getting out with honor is we are trying to whitewash ourselves. You cannot talk about peace when you are arming a people and tell them to go on fighting. That's not peace, that's war."

Push Cleveland Pollution Plan

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has asked Cleveland to "officially adopt" its plan to control water pollution at the city's three sewage-treatment plants by June 1 or face possible legal action and loss of all federal funds.

The request promises heavy federal financing to assist in the program.

The request came in a letter from Francis T. Mayo, the agency's Region Director, to Mayor Carl B. Stokes. In the letter Mayo pledged federal support of a metropolitan sewer district run by Cuyahoga County.

Connally Calls Banks' Move 'Disappointing'

NEW YORK (AP) — More banks boosted their prime lending rate today despite a bit of jawboning by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally.

"Very disappointing," Connally said Thursday immediately after Chase Manhattan Bank of New York initiated the boost to 5½ per cent from 5¼ per cent in the interest charged big corporate borrowers.

"I was totally unaware that loan demands had reached such proportions as to justify such an increase," Connally said.

The increase came after a series of cuts during the last year brought the rate down from a record 8½ per cent.

Troop Cuts Continue

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today announced the start of the seventh phase of American troop cutbacks in South Vietnam, a week ahead of President Nixon's timetable. Official sources said the reduction in U.S. forces is running 10,000 to 15,000 men ahead of schedule.

The seventh round was scheduled to begin May 1, but the command announced the stand-down of the 1st Battalion, 1st Marine Regiment, 1st Marine Division, for redeployment to Camp Pendleton, Calif., to rejoin the rest of the division. Departure of the battalion cuts the U.S. strength in Vietnam by 1,155 men.

The remaining 14,600 Marines will be out of Vietnam by the end of June.

Informed sources said it was decided to phase out the 1st Marine Regiment right away because troopships are available now. Under Nixon's timetable, the sixth phase of cutbacks was scheduled to end next Friday, April 30, with the authorized U.S. strength reduced to 284,000 men. The sources said the total would actually drop to between 274,000 and 269,000 by then, or 10,000 to 15,000 below the target ceiling.

3 Soviet Cosmonauts Chase Space Station

MOSCOW (AP) — Three Soviet cosmonauts eased their Soyuz 10 spaceship into a parallel orbit with the unmanned target ship Salute today and zeroed in for a rendezvous with the satellite launched four days ago.

Soyuz 10 streaked into orbit early this morning and began pursuing Salute, launched early Monday.

At Jodrell Bank, England's Sir Bernard Lovell, a leading expert on the Soviet space program, predicted that Russia's Soyuz 10 cosmonauts will attempt to transfer to the unmanned Salute craft.

Lovell heads the research team at the observatory which has used a giant radio telescope to track every major Soviet space flight since the first 10 years ago.

Lovell said he was waiting to see what transfer method would be used, a space walk or a docking system. He told newsmen he believed the Russians were "very close to carrying out procedures which have been anticipated for some time."

The director of West Germany's Bochum space tracking station, Heinz Kaminski, predicted one or two more spacecraft would be sent up to be attached to Soyuz 10 and Salute. He suggested tonight or Saturday night as possible launch times.

Soyuz 10 will conduct "joint experiments" with Salute, the official Soviet announcement said. It did not specify whether this would include docking, but Soviet spacecraft have docked in space before, and it appeared a likely step in the orbital laboratory program.

The huge, three-stage carrier rocket lifted off its launching pad at the Baikonur space complex in central Asia at 2:45 a.m., or 6:45 p.m. Thursday EST. Aboard were Vladimir A. Shatalov, the commander; Alexei S. Yeliseyev, the flight engineer, and Nikolai Rukavishnikov, test engineer.

The rocket jettisoned its first stage shortly after liftoff and then locked into earth orbit with a high point of 154 miles and a low point of 129.8 miles.

This was very close to Salute's orbit which ranges between 137.9 and 124.2 miles above the earth.

Kaminski said this indicated the current operation is a rehearsal, not an attempt to establish a manned space lab in orbit. He said for that the orbital height would have to be lifted to between 185 and 215 miles to avoid overheating the spacecraft.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said this morning that the target station Salute had made 66 orbits and all its systems were functioning normally.

Soviet television carried filmed excerpts of the launching of Soyuz 10. The cosmonauts provided a running commentary as the rocket lifted off.

Strapped in his flight couch just before liftoff, Shatalov recalled another space flight.

He called education the most serious problem in Ohio and noted the state government has primary responsibility for educating Ohio's youngsters.

"School children and all of the people — city residents or not — who are served by state programs are my responsibility as chief executive," Gilligan said.

"The schools and the mental institutions have nowhere to go but to the state government for help, and I do not propose to deny it to them."

Transit Authority Program Endorsed
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Central Ohio Transit Authority's application for more than $12.5 million in federal funds to buy and expand the Columbus Transit Authority was backed Thursday by the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission.

The authority will ask the U. S. Department of Transportation for the money to help finance an $18.7 million program to buy the bus company and extend, alter and add routes.

NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chip stocks turned higher today, erasing an earlier loss, but the rest of the stock market remained off. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.46 at 943.09. Earlier, it had been off more than 2 points.

Declines still outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts attributed the earlier weakness to continued profit taking and to concern over the general rise in the prime rate to 5 1/2 per cent.

Steels, motors, mail order-retail, electronics, utilities and airlines were off. Rubber issues, aircrafts, rails and oils were mixed, while metals and chemicals were higher.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 0.2 at 329.0.

Monday. If the two craft link up, it would be a major step to building an orbiting space laboratory, one of the main goals in the Soviet space program.

Soyuz 10 was in an orbit slightly higher than that of Salute, but their angles of inclination to the equator were exactly the same, 51.6 degrees. This means that Soyuz 10 would only have to slow down a bit to drop into the same orbit as Salute.

Senate OKs Extended Draft, Eyes Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, having approved a two-year extension of the draft, turned to college deferments today in a bill overhauling the Selective Service system.

The committee restored to levels recommended by the Nixon administration increases in pay for servicemen that had been boosted by the House Armed Services Committee in earlier consideration of the bill.

Enlistment bonuses, which the House panel tossed out, were approved, even as the House committee was denying them to the Army a second time in another bill.

Approving the two-year extension, already voted by the House, the Senate committee rejected proposals to limit it to one year or to extend it to four, the length of previous Selective Service Act extensions.

It voted 13 to 3 against a one-year extension, despite support from Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.

The four-year extension favored by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the committee, was defeated 10 to 6. Joining him were Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., John G. Tower, R-Tex., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio.

In the matter of pay raises, the House tripled the $987 million sought by the administration, voting to make effective immediately some $1.7 billion in additional hikes scheduled by the Pentagon for future years.

The raises are designed to make military service more attractive to volunteers—thus enabling draft calls to be gradually eliminated in favor of an all-volunteer force.

KEEP CIRCLEVILLE MOVING FORWARD!

Concerned About Health?

Statistical facts prove that chronic disease is increasing annually in the U.S. Yet, knowing this, or more conveniently ignoring these facts, man goes his merry way violating the natural laws of health. He has deluded himself into believing that chemicals can keep him healthy, or when illness does strike miracle cures are available. How far from the truth this can be!

Interference with the normal function of vital nerve force to organs, glands, and other tissue cells resulting from spinal subluxations can be the primary or contributing cause of much physical illness. Violation of nature's health laws and environmental poisons contribute to disease development. And, unless these disease factors are corrected or eliminated, the world will not be restored to health. Now is the time to concern yourself with your health through periodic chiropractic examinations and following the advice of your doctor of chiropractic. Chiropractic care and good living habits can contribute to a healthier life.

Rogers Announces Mideast Trip To Promote Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced today he will visit Israel and four Arab nations early next month in his search for a Middle East peace settlement.

"We have an opportunity to explore ways to maintain and, I hope, to accelerate peace in the Middle East... We believe this is an exceptional opportunity—an opportunity that must not be lost," he said.

At a news conference, Rogers declared he does not look for "a breakthrough" in the course of his trip but he will discuss with Egyptian and Israeli leaders the possibility of an agreement on opening the Suez Canal. He believes such an agreement could be an interim step toward a final settlement.

The Arab countries involved are Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia.

The order of his visit was not announced.

Rogers also announced that he will visit Paris for talks with Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann on April 29 and will stop in Italy on his way back to the U.S. from his Middle East Swing. The Rome visit is expected to be about May 8.

His schedule so far calls for a flight from Washington to London next Monday and attendance at a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference of foreign ministers April 27-28. He will leave London April 29 on a flight to Ankara, Turkey, with a stopover in Paris.

He will meet with foreign ministers of the Central Treaty Organization CENTO April 30-May 1 and then begin his Middle Eastern Swing.

Interference with the normal function of vital nerve force to organs, glands, and other tissue cells resulting from spinal subluxations can be the primary or contributing cause of much physical illness. Violation of nature's health laws and environmental poisons contribute to disease development. And, unless these disease factors are corrected or eliminated, the world will not be restored to health. Now is the time to concern yourself with your health through periodic chiropractic examinations and following the advice of your doctor of chiropractic. Chiropractic care and good living habits can contribute to a healthier life.

3 Soviet Cosmonauts Chase Space Station

MOSCOW (AP) — Three Soviet cosmonauts eased their Soyuz 10 spaceship into a parallel orbit with the unmanned target ship Salute today and zeroed in for a rendezvous with the satellite launched four days ago.
Soyuz 10 streaked into orbit early this morning and began pursuing Salute, launched early Monday. If the two craft link up, it would be a major step to building an orbiting space laboratory, one of the main goals in the Soviet space program.

Soyuz 10 was in an orbit slightly higher than that of Salute, but their angles of inclination to the equator were exactly the same, 51.6 degrees. This means that Soyuz 10 would only have to slow down a bit to drop into the same orbit as Salute.
At Jodrell Bank, England's Sir Bernard Lovell, a leading expert on the Soviet space program, predicted that Russia's Soyuz 10 cosmonauts will attempt to transfer to the unmanned Salute craft.
Lovell heads the research team at the observatory which has used a giant radio telescope to track every major Soviet space flight since the first 10 years ago.
Lovell said he was waiting to see what transfer method would be used, a space walk or a docking system. He told newsmen he believed the Russians were "very close to carrying out procedures which have been anticipated for some time."

The director of West Germany's Bochum space tracking station, Heinz Kaminski, predicted one or two more spacecraft would be sent up to be attached to Soyuz 10 and Salute. He suggested tonight or Saturday night as possible launch times.
Soyuz 10 will conduct "joint experiments" with Salute, the official Soviet announcement said. It did not specify whether this would include docking, but Soviet spacecraft have docked in space before, and it appeared a likely step in the orbital laboratory program.
The huge, three-stage carrier rocket lifted off its launching pad at the Baikonur space complex in central Asia at 2:45 a.m., or 6:45 p.m. Thursday EST. Aboard were Vladimir A. Shatalov, the commander; Alexei S. Yeliseyev, the flight engineer, and Nikolai Rukavishnikov, test engineer.
The rocket jettisoned its first stage shortly after liftoff and then locked into earth orbit with a high point of 154 miles and a low point of 129.8 miles. This was very close to Salute's orbit which ranges between 137.9 and 124.2 miles above the earth.
Kaminski said this indicated the current operation is a rehearsal, not an attempt to establish a manned space lab in orbit. He said for that the orbital height would have to be lifted to between 185 and 215 miles to avoid overheating the spacecraft.
Tass, the Soviet news agency, said this morning that the target station Salute had made 66 orbits and all its systems were functioning normally.
Soviet television carried filmed excerpts of the launching of Soyuz 10. The cosmonauts provided a running commentary as the rocket lifted off.
Strapped in his flight couch just before liftoff, Shatalov recalled another space flight

Gilligan Won't Use Education Aid For Cities

CONNEAUT, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan told Ohio's mayors today he will not use money desperately needed for education to help cities meet day-to-day expenses.
But Gilligan pledged to stand with the mayors if they are willing to demand the General Assembly increase state revenues to cure the financial ills of city government.
In remarks prepared for delivery to the Ohio Mayors' Association, Gilligan said:
"If you are prepared, individually and as a group, to stand up in full view and say, 'Gov. Gilligan, you have been too conservative—you tax package is too small; we mayors demand even greater expenditures than your budget proposes, and we demand that you submit to the General Assembly the higher taxes required to raise those additional revenues'—then I will stand up with them and help them take their case to the General Assembly."
Gilligan said the current proposed budget — through aid to education, welfare and mental illness — already eases the burden on city and county expenditures.
He called education the most serious problem in Ohio and noted the state government has primary responsibility for educating Ohio's youngsters.
"School children and all of the people — city residents or not — who are served by state programs are my responsibility as chief executive," Gilligan said.
"The schools and the mental institutions have nowhere to go but to the state government for help, and I do not propose to deny it to them."

Stock List Irregular
NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chip stocks turned higher today, erasing an earlier loss, but the rest of the stock market remained off. Trading was moderate.
The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.46 at 943.09. Earlier, it had been off more than 2 points.
Declines still outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange.
Analysts attributed the earlier weakness to continued profit taking and to concern over the general rise in the prime rate to 5 1/2 percent.
Steels, motors, mail order-retail, electronics, utilities and airlines were off. Rubber issues, aircrafts, rails and oils were mixed, while metals and chemicals were higher.
The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 0.2 at 329.0.

Senate OKs Extended Draft, Eyes Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, having approved a two-year extension of the draft, turned to college deferments today in a bill overhauling the Selective Service system.
The committee restored to levels recommended by the Nixon administration increases in pay for servicemen that had been boosted by the House Armed Services Committee in earlier consideration of the bill.
Enlistment bonuses, which the House panel tossed out, were approved, even as the House committee was denying them to the Army a second time in another bill.
Approving the two-year extension, already voted by the House, the Senate committee rejected proposals to limit it to one year or to extend it to four, the length of previous Selective Service Act extensions.
It voted 13 to 3 against a one-year extension, despite support from Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.
The four-year extension favored by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the committee, was defeated 10 to 6. Joining him were Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., John G. Tower, R-Tex., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio.
In the matter of pay raises, the House tripled the $987 million sought by the administration, voting to make effective immediately some $1.7 billion in additional hikes scheduled by the Pentagon for future years.
The raises are designed to make military service more attractive to volunteers—thus enabling draft calls to be gradually eliminated in favor of an all-volunteer force.

Stock List Irregular
NEW YORK (AP) — Blue chip stocks turned higher today, erasing an earlier loss, but the rest of the stock market remained off. Trading was moderate.
The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.46 at 943.09. Earlier, it had been off more than 2 points.
Declines still outnumbered advances on the New York Stock Exchange.
Analysts attributed the earlier weakness to continued profit taking and to concern over the general rise in the prime rate to 5 1/2 percent.
Steels, motors, mail order-retail, electronics, utilities and airlines were off. Rubber issues, aircrafts, rails and oils were mixed, while metals and chemicals were higher.
The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 0.2 at 329.0.

Senate OKs Extended Draft, Eyes Reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, having approved a two-year extension of the draft, turned to college deferments today in a bill overhauling the Selective Service system.
The committee restored to levels recommended by the Nixon administration increases in pay for servicemen that had been boosted by the House Armed Services Committee in earlier consideration of the bill.
Enlistment bonuses, which the House panel tossed out, were approved, even as the House committee was denying them to the Army a second time in another bill.
Approving the two-year extension, already voted by the House, the Senate committee rejected proposals to limit it to one year or to extend it to four, the length of previous Selective Service Act extensions.
It voted 13 to 3 against a one-year extension, despite support from Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa.
The four-year extension favored by Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the committee, was defeated 10 to 6. Joining him were Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., Margaret Chase Smith, R-Maine, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., John G. Tower, R-Tex., and William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio.
In the matter of pay raises, the House tripled the $987 million sought by the administration, voting to make effective immediately some $1.7 billion in additional hikes scheduled by the Pentagon for future years.
The raises are designed to make military service more attractive to volunteers—thus enabling draft calls to be gradually eliminated in favor of an all-volunteer force.

Rogers Announces Mideast Trip To Promote Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers announced today he will visit Israel and four Arab nations early next month in his search for a Middle East peace settlement.
"We have an opportunity to explore ways to maintain and, I hope, to accelerate peace in the Middle East... We believe this is an exceptional opportunity—an opportunity that must not be lost," he said.
At a news conference, Rogers declared he does not look for "a breakthrough" in the course of his trip but he will discuss with Egyptian and Israeli leaders the possibility of an agreement on opening the Suez Canal. He believes such an agreement could be an interim step toward a final settlement.
The Arab countries involved are Egypt, Jordan, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia.
The order of his visit was not announced.
Rogers also announced that he will visit Paris for talks with Foreign Minister Maurice Schuman on April 29 and will stop in Italy on his way back to the U.S. from his Middle East Swing. The Rome visit is expected to be about May 8.

His schedule so far calls for a flight from Washington to London next Monday and attendance at a Southeast Asia Treaty Organization conference of foreign ministers April 27-28. He will leave London April 29 on a flight to Ankara, Turkey, with a stopover in Paris.
He will meet with foreign ministers of the Central Treaty Organization CENTO April 30-May 1 and then begin his Middle Eastern Swing.

CONCERNED ABOUT HEALTH?
Statistical facts prove that chronic disease is increasing annually in the U.S. Yet, knowing this, or more conveniently ignoring these facts, man goes his merry way violating the natural laws of health. He has deluded himself into believing that chemicals can keep him healthy, or when illness does strike miracle cures are available. How far from the truth this can be!
Interference with the normal function of vital nerve force to organs, glands, and other tissue cells resulting from spinal subluxations can be the primary or contributing cause of much physical illness. Violation of nature's health laws and environmental poisons contribute to disease development. And, unless these disease factors are corrected or eliminated, the world will not be restored to health. Now is the time to concern yourself with your health through periodic chiropractic examinations and following the advice of your doctor of chiropractic. Chiropractic care and good living habits can contribute to a healthier life.
Presented in the public interest for better health through chiropractic under the auspices of the Central Ohio Chiropractic Association.

Youth Spends 'Sentence' At Pigsty

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Nineteen-year-old Robert L. Vitek Jr., accompanied by a Shaker Heights policeman, visited some real pigs on a Portage County farm Wednesday and admitted that he "deserved" the punishment.

Shaker Heights Municipal Judge Manuel M. Rucker had ordered Vitek to spend three hours in a pigsty after the youth admitted calling a University Heights policeman a pig.

Vitek, given a choice between spending 30 days in the workhouse and paying a $500 fine or three hours in the pigsty and a $100 fine, chose the latter.

Patrolman Raymond J. Repko took Vitek to the farm of Leonard Roosa on Infirmary Road, six miles north of Ravenna, where the Roosas keep four grown pigs and eight baby pigs.

Repko said Vitek didn't actually get in with the pigs but sat outside and observed.

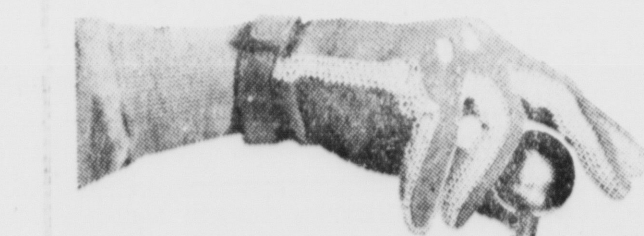

Vitek said he fed corn to a pig and went on a tour of the farm.

"I don't think the court could have made a better decision," the youth said. "I'm no hippie radical. I admit I deserved punishment. I'm glad I got the opportunity to go."

Mrs. Roosa, 53, said Vitek "seemed like a nice young man."

Judge Rucker said he thought the youth had learned his lesson. Vitek had been found guilty of abusing a policeman for calling University Heights Police Sgt. Jay L. McKenna a pig as McKenna was filling out a ticket for a speeder April 11.

Storms Hit Large Part Of South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms and heavy rain pelted a large area of the South today, focusing on the Ozarks and northeast Texas.

Civil Defense authorities in Conway, Ark., not far from Little Rock, reported flooding in the downtown area in the wake of 2 1/2 inch rainfall.

More than 1 1/2 inches drenched McAlester, Okla., in a six-hour span.

Severe thunderstorm watches were issued for parts of Mississippi, Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee. Late Thursday, 50-mile-an-hour winds felled power lines and trees at Russellville, Ark.

Light rain and even a few snow flurries spattered widespread areas in other parts of the midcontinent.

Chilly temperatures were the rule across the Northern and Western portions of the country, and frost warnings were posted for parts of Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Illinois.

Churches See Attitude Shift Needed

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Religious thinkers contend that a basic change in Western values, modifying its pursuit of ever-increasing material abundance, is essential to stem the tide toward environmental ruin.

They also say that the theology itself must couple its concern for human life with a deepened regard for all of nature. A "theology of ecology," they call it, citing Biblical grounds for it.

The starting point of faith is "reverence for God's creation," says Rabbi Dr. Abraham Heschel. "People didn't create the world. It's a gift. We're only partners, at best. But men have acted as if they're its creator, owner and master."

"This presumption is the crowning sin of Western civilization. It has degraded the world into a toolbox, and the vengeance of it poisons the earth and reduces man himself to a mere tool, an enslaved machine."

Concern about it and the cloud it casts over the future sounded in sermons, church publications, scholarly conferences and religion-science study groups as the country observed the current Earth Week.

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof," declares Psalm 24.

"We must translate these words into concrete actions" to correct the "order of national priorities," the Rev. Harry N. Hollis, of a Southern Baptist applied ethics unit told a seminary gathering.

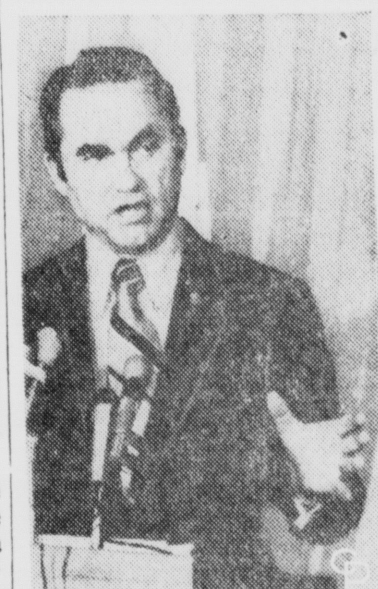

On a widening front, religious leaders insist that only a major shift of values to curb the quest for ever greater production and consumption can preserve planetary life.

"The iron laws of economics" must yield to the more inexorable "iron laws of ecology," the Rev. Scott I. Paradise, director of the Boston Industrial Mission, told a recent meeting of a special Faith-Man-Nature Group.

In an interview in the current evangelical weekly, Christianity Today, Dr. Carl Reidel, an American Baptist of the Williams College Center for Environmental Studies, says, "We are headed for the obliteration of life."

He adds: "Only when individual Christians make a radical reassessment of their personal values concerning material affluence, and start expressing their commitment collectively through the church, will we see

Man, 86, Robbed While Taking Money To Bank

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — An 86-year-old man told police he was robbed of $1,500 by two men as he was taking the money to a downtown bank to deposit it.

Thomas Jackson said he was standing on a corner on the East Side waiting for a bus Wednesday when two men drove up in a car and forced him inside at gunpoint.

He said the pair drove for several blocks and then pushed him out of the car after taking the money, which he had in a paper bag in his pocket.

Jackson said he had been keeping the money at home, but decided that a bank was safer because of the increasing number of home robberies and burglaries.

Bureaucratic Jungle

One of the gravest weaknesses of the federal consumer protection programs has been rediscovered by Mrs. Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer affairs adviser. This is the way they're scattered throughout the bureaucracies.

A person who wants to invoke the protection of the Truth in Lending Act has to figure out whether to consult the Federal Trade Commission, Federal Reserve Board, Agriculture Department, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Civil Aeronautics Board or any of four other agencies.

Such expensive duplication of functions adds enormously to the annual federal deficit.

Before she has completed tracking consumer programs through the federal organizational charts, Mrs. Knauer may find out that whoever previously reported that 413 offices and agencies were involved quit counting too soon.

Her discoveries form a powerful argument for an Independent Consumer Protection Agency or some other centralized voice for consumers.

Bumper's Comeback

A start toward reviving automobile bumpers that can take bumps has been made by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Bumpers on 1973 models must bear up under head-on impact with fixed barriers at 5 miles an hour, the agency has ordered.

Rear bumpers must withstand impact at 2½ mph, a virtual standstill. Maybe it's unrealistic to expect more for the '73s, but it's hard to comprehend why 1974 models will get by with no more than 4 mph resistance in the rear.

Inadequacy of present bumpers is shown by Detroit estimates of what it will cost to comply with these regulations. Whatever the bill, it's the consumer who will pay, except this time he might get some of it back in reduced insurance rates. One company has promised a 10 per cent lowering of premiums on cars which meet the new requirements.

Other companies are reported ready to ease premiums when auto bumpers begin again to do the job for which they were originally designed.

Suckered Again By China

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Chou En-lai, the urbane Number Two man of Red China who combined the attributes of the insidious Dr. Fu Manchu and New York City's old-time official welcomer, Grover Whalen, was credited in the late 1940s with slickering the U.S. into believing the bunk about the Chinese Communists being mere Jeffersonian agrarians. Now he bobs up as the ingratiating host to the American table tennis team in Peking. The boys and girls on the U.S. team hardly qualify as political sophisticates; one nice kid, John Tannehill of Middleport, Ohio, naively observed that Chairman Mao Tse-tung is "the greatest moral and intellectual leader in the world today" because "he reaches most of the people — his philosophy is beautiful." Mao's most famous saying, of course, is that "power comes from the barrel of a gun."

I don't want to rub it in because Ping-Pong players don't happen to have long memories; they aren't old enough to recall that Chou En-lai fooled General George Marshall into thinking he could bring Mao Tse-tung and the Kuomintang's Chiang Kai-shek together in a grand coalition government to put post-1945 China on its feet. I want to ask why the Number One table tennis player in the U.S., who goes by the name of D. J. Lee, didn't make the Peking trip with the rest of the Americans.

D. J. Lee is quite a champion, maybe not so good as the Red Chinese masters of the furious overspin or the fading undercut, but good enough to have eliminated the famous Czech player, Jaroslav Stanek, in the U.S. Easterns. It so happens that D.J. Lee is an ethnic South Korean, who is domiciled in Cleveland, Ohio. His name, before he Anglicized it, was Lee Dal Joon. The story as I get it is that D. J. Lee, or Lee Dal Joon, parted company from his teammates in Tokyo, going on to Seoul in South Korea to see his aged mother while the less proficient American players went to Peking. Query: was Lee Dal Joon discriminated against by Chou En-lai because of his ethnic South Korean background? If so, how would this differ from South Africa's refusal to give the U.S. Negro tennis player, Arthur Ashe, a visa to take part in South African tournaments?

Or maybe Lee Dal Joon just didn't want to go to a country whose armed forces descended not so long ago on his native South Korea. Could a South Korean have kept his cool while being subjected to Chou En-lai's blandishments about the New Open Door? Said Chou to the visiting Americans, "Now, with your acceptance of our invitation, you have opened a new page in the relations of the Chinese and American people." The "new page" obviously does not include a welcome to anyone in the U.S., whether ethnic South Korean or not, who knows that, technically, the Red Chinese have never really concluded a peace with the Western nations that combined under UN auspices to keep South Korea from being overrun by Maoists trying to exercise the power that comes from the barrel of a gun.

Before accepting the impressions of the Great Wall of China and the University of Chinghua as recorded by Errol Resek, John Tannehill and other U.S. ping pongsists at face value, I would like to know what Lee Dal Joon thinks about the whole business of rapprochement with Red China. Lee Dal Joon might have contributed some depth to statements about Mao's philosophy and the "air of relaxation" that allegedly pervades Red Chinese university communities. Some American players have contrasted the atmosphere at Chinghua University with U.S. campuses, implying that the Red Chinese can give us lessons in promoting freedom of expression in the classroom. They might have learned from Lee Dal Joon that Mao closed down all his universities in 1966 for some five years. That's letting a hundred flowers bloom, all right.

You can be suckered at table tennis by a sliding drop shot if you play far back of the table waiting for an overspin. Chou En-lai has just completed the diplomatic equivalent of using an undercut fadeaway on the whole U.S. public. He did it without letting the Number One table tennis player in the U.S., D. J. Lee (or Lee Dal Joon), have an opportunity to take on the Red Chinese at both the Ping-Pong table and in dialogue while contemplating the ruins of the Great Wall. When bigger fools of the U.S. people are made, Chou will make them.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A DETERMINED optimist, undaunted by the fact that his seat on the New York Stock Exchange is worth a hefty sum less than it was in the good old days—1968, that is—refuses to admit that the country has been wallowing in the throes of a recession. When pressed, however, he does reluctantly concede, "It IS the worst boom we've had in years."

No true film lover is likely to forget Sir Alex Guinness' superb performance in "The Bridge on the River Kwai." Movie critic Bob Salmaghi now reveals that the star was so upset by the way Director David Lean wanted him to portray the role that he sulked in his dressing room on the set for six weeks, refusing even to discuss his objections. Lean ultimately prevailed, however, and when Sir Alec won an Oscar for his performance, he was man enough to admit that he owed it all to his adamant director.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Does coughing up blood in the morning mean there is a possibility of tuberculosis? My husband has been doing this for the past two months and he is terrified.

He refuses to see a doctor. Perhaps you can help us persuade him to do so.

Mrs. B. V. V. Dear Mrs. V.: Problems of this sort are constantly being brought to my attention.

The problem may differ, but the attitude is the same. Coughing up blood is one complaint. Pains in the chest, shortness of breath, the inability to walk more than a few steps without leg cramps, and many other symptoms seem to terrify people who adamantly refuse to see a doctor.

In this age of medical enlightenment, it seems foolish to harbor a fear of a disease that probably doesn't exist.

Can you imagine how terrified your husband must feel every time he coughs up a little blood? Associated with the terror is a feeling of guilt because of the injustice he may be doing to you and his family.

Let me just state that there are any number of reasons for coughing up small amounts of blood, many of them of no importance at all.

It is true that hemorrhages from the lung can be associated with tuberculosis. But it is also true that blood thought to be "coughed up" can actually come from a dental problem, trouble in the sinuses, or a break in one of the tiny blood vessels in the delicate lining of the mouth, of the esophagus, or the bronchial tube. I treated a patient who, for months before I saw him, was certain he was dying of cancer of the lungs. In reality, all he had was a poorly fitting denture that was jamming up against the lining of his mouth, causing it to ulcerate and bleed. He too coughed up blood.

This is typical of the person who, because of fear, does himself a great injustice by not seeking medical advice. You can't push or force an adult to go to a doctor. If, however, your husband can be assured that the chances are great that he does not have tuberculosis or any other dangerous condition perhaps he can be persuaded to be examined.

Clinical examinations and X-ray studies can quickly eliminate his fear, and find the exact cause of the bleeding.

I am confused by the articles I read that question the value of drugs taken by mouth for the control of diabetes.

As a diabetic, I have been taking an oral drug for three years and I am in good health. Do you think I should continue?

Mr. E. T. W. Fla.

Dear Mr. W.: Patients like yourself sometimes become trapped in "scientific" confusion. Some science writers prematurely announced medical news. Patients, unable to evaluate these reports properly, become unnecessarily confused.

Your diabetes is obviously under control by the oral drug your doctor has prescribed. Continue to follow your doctor's orders. He is in the best position to evaluate the scientific studies now being made about the value of oral drugs for diabetes.

Diamonds Are Man's Best Friend, Too

NEW YORK (AP) — Diamonds are a girl's best friend according to that Little Rock girl in Gentlemen Prefer Blondes. However, diamonds were first the man's best friend.

The ancient Roman historian Pliny refers to diamonds as "the most valuable of gems known only to kings."

Males still show an avid interest in wearing diamonds, be it on tie clasps, cuff links or wrist watches, says the Bulova Watch Company.

American gals are showered with some 500,000 diamond watches each Christmas and Pliny might be delighted if he knew — the male still prevails. He pays the bills.

NEW YORK (AP) — A man without a memory is a man without a mind.

The more memories that cluster within that bone-sheltered cluster of nerves we call our brain, the more knowledgeable we are and better able to deal with life. But memory has the power to deform as well as inform us.

It is well to pick and choose with care among our memories, summoning up the good ones as often as possible and relegating the bad ones to the dark closet of the mind and kept there under lock and key.

Your own house of memories is well-stocked if you can look back and remember when—

Kids in the old swimming hole thought they had it made when they quit mudcrabbing and learned to dog paddle clear across the pond—Marco Polo's float.

Any carnival that had one flea-bitten elephant called itself a circus.

Most children in America still studied their school lessons at night around kitchen tables lit by a kerosene lamp or a 40-watt light bulb.

A pious home was one in which the family Bible never had to be dusted because someone in the household read in it every day.

When you went barefoot in summer and stepped on a thorn or rusty nail, mother worried for days in fear that you would come down with lockjaw.

and putting them in her bloomers.

You could cut the initials of yourself and your loved one on a tree trunk without being accused of threatening the local ecology.

Everybody knew what a bomb was, most people had at least a vague idea of what an atom was, but no one even dreamed of what the atom bomb might do to the destiny of mankind.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most revealing and rewarding pastimes for an investor is to go back over the recommendations of securities advisers and compare their forecasts with conditions that actually ensued.

Revealing in the sense that the investor will see how glib and cheap is much investment advice. Rewarding in that he will learn how cheap advice can be costly and therefore to be ignored in the future.

In late November and early December of 1968, with the market ready to slide into a prolonged decline that would be the worst since 1929, long-term views by member firms of the New York Stock Exchange included:

— "There are now and will be many good buying opportunities during this present tax adjustment period . . . A large reservoir of buying power is still on the sidelines, waiting to 'uncover' new and attractive situations."

—"Right now we have bullish action in all three key segments of the market . . . The technical background is very strong, and there is not enough adverse fundamental news to make us doubt our interpretation . . ."

—"The upside implication . . . plainly points to considerably higher levels, i. e., 1300 for the Dow Jones Industrial Average over the longer term and a possibly nearer term 1100 to be reached, say, in the first half of 1969."

Many people have threatened to dig up the damning records that so often, and curiously remain safely interred, permitting so many vain forecasters to boast, "As I told you last year . . ."

John Springer did look at the records, and now he has written a book, to be published soon by Henry Regnery Co., about the quality of investment advice. It has the provocative title, "If They're So Smart, How Come You're Not Rich?"

Read it and you'll likely maintain your own counsel hereafter. The forecasts quoted above are not isolated examples. Springer claims that a study of market letters at that time showed bullishness by an 8 to 1 ratio.

The evidence assembled, much of it previously published but not so skillfully coordinated, shows that investment advisers not only need not be smart, but they need be almost nothing else either.

"As long as you have no criminal record and have not been caught violating securities laws," Springer states, "you may set up your own advisory service, and advertise for clients."

Bureaucratic Jungle

One of the gravest weaknesses of the federal consumer protection programs has been rediscovered by Mrs. Virginia Knauer, the President's consumer affairs adviser. This is the way they're scattered throughout the bureaucracies.

A person who wants to invoke the protection of the Truth in Lending Act has to figure out whether to consult the Federal Trade Commission, Federal Reserve Board, Agriculture Department, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, Civil Aeronautics Board or any of four other agencies.

Such expensive duplication of functions adds enormously to the annual federal deficit.

Before she has completed tracking consumer programs through the federal organizational charts, Mrs. Knauer may find out that whoever previously reported that 413 offices and agencies were involved quit counting too soon.

Her discoveries form a powerful argument for an Independent Consumer Protection Agency or some other centralized voice for consumers.

NEW YORK (AP) — A man without a memory is a man without a mind.

The more memories that cluster within that bone-sheltered cluster of nerves we call our brain, the more knowledgeable we are and better able to deal with life. But memory has the power to deform as well as inform us.

It is well to pick and choose with care among our memories, summoning up the good ones as often as possible and relegating the bad ones to the dark closet of the mind and kept there under lock and key.

Your own house of memories is well-stocked if you can look back and remember when—

Everybody knew what a bomb was, most people had at least a vague idea of what an atom was, but no one even dreamed of what the atom bomb might do to the destiny of mankind.

In city streets horse residues were more of an environmental problem than gasoline fumes. More people were afraid of tuberculosis than the federal income tax.

Somehow the postman found time to read all the postcards on his route—and still make two mail deliveries a day. Those were the days—remember?

In every grammar school class there seemed to be at least one bold girl who would put the boys in a quandary by snatching caps off their heads

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most revealing and rewarding pastimes for an investor is to go back over the recommendations of securities advisers and compare their forecasts with conditions that actually ensued.

Revealing in the sense that the investor will see how glib and cheap is much investment advice. Rewarding in that he will learn how cheap advice can be costly and therefore to be ignored in the future.

In late November and early December of 1968, with the market ready to slide into a prolonged decline that would be the worst since 1929, long-term views by member firms of the New York Stock Exchange included:

—"There are now and will be many good buying opportunities during this present tax adjustment period . . . A large reservoir of buying power is still on the sidelines, waiting to 'uncover' new and attractive situations."

"Right now we have bullish action in all three key segments of the market . . . The technical background is very strong, and there is not enough adverse fundamental news to make us doubt our interpretation . . ."

"The upside implication . . . plainly points to considerably higher levels, i.e., 1300 for the Dow Jones Industrial Average over the longer term and a possibly nearer term 1100 to be reached, say, in the first half of 1969."

Many people have threatened to dig up the damning records that so often, and curiously remain safely interred, permitting so many vain forecasters to boast, "As I told you last year . . ."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I do not get along very well. In fact, if it weren't for the kids, I wouldn't live within 1,000 miles of this idiot. We are both artists and my husband specializes in Western art now, and he has been selling his paintings before the oil is dry on the canvas. I don't mean to put him down, but my work is much better than his even if it doesn't sell half as well. The public just happens to be going for gimmick art.

I can hardly stand it when my husband sells a painting. For one thing, he has a way of gloating that makes me want to put my fist right through his face. I wish I knew how to get over this envious attitude. Can you help me?

Air Pollution Board Needs More Power

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Air Pollution Control Board was told Thursday it needs more legal authority to comply with new federal air quality standards.

Health Department Engineer Jack Wunderle said he sees no problem in getting the necessary legislation from the General Assembly. The Gilligan administration reportedly plans to introduce such a bill.

Ohio must submit to the Environmental Protection Agency by Jan. 31 plans for implementation of new federal air standards contained in the Clean Air Act.

Wunderle said the Ohio board needs authority to license all sources of pollution and register motor vehicles and should have emergency power to deal with a pollution disaster.

Under the emergency provision, the board would be able to shut down a pollution source without prior notification if pollution levels present a health hazard.

Motor vehicles would be registered to allow the board to inspect pollution control devices required by 1975.

Municipalities and industries would be licensed under a system requiring permits for both construction and operation of facilities.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother recently remarried after having been a widow for a good many years. She is a dear, sweet woman, and I couldn't love my own mother more.

She and her new husband visited us last Christmas, and during the evening he made me a little uncomfortable just by the way he kept looking at me. He followed me into the kitchen once and said he wanted to give me a little Christmas kiss. I gave him my cheek, but he grabbed me and said, "No, not that kind . . ." then he tried to kiss me on the mouth. I got away from him and kept my distance all evening.

Now he calls me on the phone when he knows my husband is at work. He says he wants to talk to me. I am afraid of him. He is 70.

Please tell me how to handle this. They live in another town not far from us, but we see them quite often.

PAPA PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Tell him that if he doesn't leave you alone you will tell your husband that he has been bothering you. And if that doesn't straighten him out, make good your threat.

DEAR ABBY: When my girl and I started going together, I asked her to please get her teeth fixed as she needed it badly. I even offered to pay for it. She agreed to see a dentist but she never did. I know she hasn't been to a dentist in a good many years.

We are planning to be married in a few months so last night I reminded her of her promise and told her to start right away so she would look nice for our wedding. She turned very cold on me and said she didn't want to discuss it.

Abby, she's a very pretty girl but her teeth are ugly, when she smiles it spoils her looks.

She's a wonderful person in every other way, but her teeth are so bad I would even postpone our wedding until she gets them fixed. What should I do?

DEAR GROOM: The only logical reason for your fiancée to duck the dentist is fear! She needs to be reassured that dentistry has come a long way since she was a little girl. Offer to go with her, and let the dentist examine her mouth and explain exactly what must be done. A neglected mouth is not only unsightly, it's unhealthy. She may be a "wonderful" girl, but she needs to grow up and face reality. Help her.

Traffic cases recently appearing in Juvenile Court involved ten Pickaway County teenagers.

Michael Dyke, Morris Trailer Court and Julian D. Parker, 148 Griner Ave., were each cited by city police for speeding 45 in a 35 mile zone. Dyke was fined $10 and lost his driving privileges for six weeks. Parker's $10 fine was suspended and his license taken away for 30 days.

Charged with operating an unsafe vehicle was Vicky Stevens, 17, of 939 S. Washington St. Her license was suspended for two weeks.

Lack of a muffler was the charge against Clinton L. Borror, 16, of Orient. The judge suspended the boy's $10 fine.

Cited into court for speeding were 17-year-old Deborah Smith, Lockbourne and Paul Jeffrey Russell, 17, Stoutsville. Miss Smith was fined $10 and her license was restricted for 30 days to school only. Russell received a 30 day license suspension.

An amendment was approved for a recent judgment against Christopher Stewart, 17, of 112 Seyfert Ave. Stewart was restricted from driving until Feb. 23, 1972 for operating an automobile while his license was suspended. The order was amended to permit the boy to use his license for work purposes only.

Franklin County officers cited Kenneth R. Dawson, 17, of Orient for repeatedly driving left of center and not having a license. The local Juvenile Court found Dawson guilty of both charges. His license was suspended for 30 days on the former charge and for not having a driver license, he was ordered not to apply for one for six months and fined $50.

Steven J. Fischer, Route 4, had his driving privileges restricted for 30 days to school and school activities only for failure to yield to traffic.

Joseph E. Vice, 17, Ashville, had his license taken away by the court for 30 days. He was charged with a stop sign violation.

NEW YORK (AP) — There were no startling revelations and little instruction in "Childhood: The Enchanted Years" Thursday night, but there were certainly a lot of cute babies. And, for the female audience at any rate, baby-watching is fun.

The NBC hour special, labeled as a documentary, concentrated on children up to 3 years old—slapped into their first cries and seeming to hate everything they encountered in the strange new world, but then adjusting and beginning to enjoy it.

It was a delightful hour, full of humor provided by the babies and some perceptive cameramen. The parade of infants was interrupted frequently for such sage observations as, "Mother is the architect who designs the child's world."

There was a marvelous moment when a very young Alexander was the subject of an experiment that involved what looked like a cherry on the end of a stick. An eager young scientist was poking the stick at him when Alexander closed his eyes and went to sleep. Nothing, including nudging from the young scientist frantically aware she was letting the show down, disturbed him.

One charming segment showed an assortment of babies attempting in a variety of ways to graduate from crawling to walking. Each effort ended suddenly with a bump on the floor and it was all done to a light, witty musical accompaniment.

ABC pre-empted a rerun of Danny Thomas' situation comedy to give six Democratic senators—each an avowed or potential presidential candidate—an opportunity to answer the Nixon administration position on Indochina.

With the exception of Henry M. Jackson of Washington each senator called for a set date for total withdrawal. Each speaker was given a few minutes to outline his position. They were Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Jackson, Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

The form of the program was basic and standard: Each man

Middletown Hit By Outbreak Of Hepatitis

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Health officials today were attempting to track down the cause of an increase in infectious hepatitis in the Middletown area over the past month.

Dr. Robert F. McConaughy, health commissioner, reported Thursday that 20 cases were reported in the last month. Normally there are less than five a year in the city of 50,000 people, he said.

"The cases are scattered and there doesn't seem to be any common source unless it is contact," Dr. McConaughy said.

"We are of the opinion that no bad food or water is involved."

Most of the cases involved children, he said.

have also moved deliberately to strengthen campus security forces in numbers and competence.

Most have "contingency plans to call on outside help in the event of violence this spring.

A survey by The Associated Press shows that administrators at most of Ohio's 12 state universities expect demonstrations on their own or other campuses before the school year ends.

University officials concurred, however, that disturbances would result from "outside concerns," mainly the war in Indochina, rather than campus issues.

As the spotlight trains on Kent State University, it prepares to commemorate last year's shooting death of four students. Four days of campus activities are planned, beginning May 1.

It's anybody's guess whether the peaceful approach will be practiced as well as preached. What happens at Kent State may influence the climate at other Ohio universities.

Ted R. Robinson, vice president for student affairs at Ohio State University, said, "Although I think the majority of students do not want them, I suspect we will have demonstrations this spring."

"Demonstrations will most likely occur," James Bond, vice president for student affairs at Bowling Green State University, echoed. "However, I do not foresee the degree of disruption experienced last spring."

If there has been any single positive result of last spring's disturbances, it is the coming together of students, faculty members and administrators in efforts to prevent new violence.

Such efforts at the University of Cincinnati have focused on "the belief that good communication would eliminate the misunderstanding or frustration that might lead to disruptive activity as a means of expression," James Scully, dean of students, said.

Information centers with 24-hour telephone service to answer any and all questions have been or will be established at Cincinnati, Kent State, Ohio

State, Ohio and Miami Universities.

New publications to keep the campus community aware of administrative moves and other actions affecting the university have cropped up at Ohio University, Cincinnati and Kent State.

Ohio State, Ohio University and Cincinnati now have "ombudsmen," university employees whose fulltime job is to listen to students' grievances and try to resolve them.

Independently conducted student opinion surveys have been commissioned by Ohio State and Miami.

More than 1,625 students currently serve on 687 Ohio State University committees, an increase of 935 since last spring. About 3,700 faculty members sit on the same panels. At Ohio University, standing committees this year include 168 faculty members, 110 students and 74 administrators.

Rules for student behavior have been clarified, rather than tightened or relaxed, administrators said.

R. L. Hansford, vice president and dean of student services at the University of Akron, said, "changes which have been made call for students assuming greater responsibility for their conduct."

One major change results from "the enactment last summer by the General Assembly of a law providing for immediate suspension or dismissal of students and university employees arrested in connection with campus disorders."

With an eye toward possible complications in criminal proceedings, Ohio University has agreed with Athens authorities to a release - on - recognizance plan as alternative to bail for students accused of felonies.

At a student's request — and only then — the university will place a hold on his academic record to assure his appearance in court.

Administrators indicated response to any disturbances would be determined by the nature of the situation.

"We believe in peaceful dissent, but if the dissent should become violent, we have made plans with our student leaders, the city police and the sheriff's office," said Lancelot Thompson, University of Toledo vice president for student affairs.

On at least three campuses — Kent, Wright and Ohio University — volunteer marshals have been recruited among the university community to keep lines of communication open and act in other non-law enforcement capacities during disturbances.

Campus police have been beefed up and better-trained during the year at many campuses. Ohio State and Kent State have new campus security directors, and both have placed new emphasis on experience in "disturbance containment" and community relations.

Since last spring the Ohio State University security force has increased from 30 to 60 members; Ohio University police are up to 41 from 22; Kent State now has around 50, compared to 40 last year.

At the various schools agreements have been worked out with local city police, sheriffs and the State Highway Patrol to provide emergency services.

Ohio University President Claude Sowle summed up the feeling of many administrators regarding campus disorders: "It's unfortunate that an academic community must concern itself with problems of this sort."

"Circumstances of late, however, demonstrate clearly that we ignore such matters at our peril."

Ohio College Leaders Foresee Outbreaks

By JEAN ETSINGER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In the year since violence reverberated from Kent State to campuses across the nation, Ohio's state universities have made unprecedented efforts toward better communication with students.

Administrators hope to prevent campus disruptions. But they have also moved deliberately to strengthen campus security forces in numbers and competence.

Most have "contingency plans to call on outside help in the event of violence this spring. A survey by The Associated Press shows that administrators at most of Ohio's 12 state universities expect demonstrations on their own or other campuses before the school year ends.

University officials concurred, however, that disturbances would result from "outside concerns," mainly the war in Indochina, rather than campus issues.

As the spotlight trains on Kent State University, it prepares to commemorate last year's shooting death of four students. Four days of campus activities are planned, beginning May 1.

It's anybody's guess whether the peaceful approach will be practiced as well as preached. What happens at Kent State may influence the climate at other Ohio universities.

Ted R. Robinson, vice president for student affairs at Ohio State University, said, "Although I think the majority of students do not want them, I suspect we will have demonstrations this spring."

"Demonstrations will most likely occur," James Bond, vice president for student affairs at Bowling Green State University, echoed. "However, I do not foresee the degree of disruption experienced last spring."

If there has been any single positive result of last spring's disturbances, it is the coming together of students, faculty members and administrators in efforts to prevent new violence.

Such efforts at the University of Cincinnati have focused on "the belief that good communication would eliminate the misunderstanding or frustration that might lead to disruptive activity as a means of expression," James Scully, dean of students, said.

Information centers with 24-hour telephone service to answer any and all questions have been or will be established at Cincinnati, Kent State, Ohio

State, Ohio and Miami Universities.

New publications to keep the campus community aware of administrative moves and other actions affecting the university have cropped up at Ohio University, Cincinnati and Kent State.

Ohio State, Ohio University and Cincinnati now have "ombudsmen," university employees whose fulltime job is to listen to students' grievances and try to resolve them.

Independently conducted student opinion surveys have been commissioned by Ohio State and Miami.

More than 1,625 students currently serve on 687 Ohio State University committees, an increase of 935 since last spring. About 3,700 faculty members sit on the same panels. At Ohio University, standing committees this year include 168 faculty members, 110 students and 74 administrators.

Rules for student behavior have been clarified, rather than tightened or relaxed, administrators said.

R. L. Hansford, vice president and dean of student services at the University of Akron, said, "changes which have been made call for students assuming greater responsibility for their conduct."

One major change results from "the enactment last summer by the General Assembly of a law providing for immediate suspension or dismissal of students and university employees arrested in connection with campus disorders."

With an eye toward possible complications in criminal proceedings, Ohio University has agreed with Athens authorities to a release - on - recognizance plan as alternative to bail for students accused of felonies.

At a student's request — and only then — the university will place a hold on his academic record to assure his appearance in court.

Administrators indicated response to any disturbances would be determined by the nature of the situation.

"We believe in peaceful dissent, but if the dissent should become violent, we have made plans with our student leaders, the city police and the sheriff's office," said Lancelot Thompson, University of Toledo vice president for student affairs.

On at least three campuses — Kent, Wright and Ohio University — volunteer marshals have been recruited among the university community to keep lines of communication open and act in other non-law enforcement capacities during disturbances.

Campus police have been beefed up and better-trained during the year at many campuses. Ohio State and Kent State have new campus security directors, and both have placed new emphasis on experience in "disturbance containment" and community relations.

Since last spring the Ohio State University security force has increased from 30 to 60 members; Ohio University police are up to 41 from 22; Kent State now has around 50, compared to 40 last year.

At the various schools agreements have been worked out with local city police, sheriffs and the State Highway Patrol to provide emergency services.

Ohio University President Claude Sowle summed up the feeling of many administrators regarding campus disorders: "It's unfortunate that an academic community must concern itself with problems of this sort."

"Circumstances of late, however, demonstrate clearly that we ignore such matters at our peril."

Views on Television

NEW YORK (AP) — There were no startling revelations and little instruction in "Childhood: The Enchanted Years" Thursday night, but there were certainly a lot of cute babies. And, for the female audience at any rate, baby-watching is fun.

The NBC hour special, labeled as a documentary, concentrated on children up to 3 years old—slapped into their first cries and seeming to hate everything they encountered in the strange new world, but then adjusting and beginning to enjoy it.

It was a delightful hour, full of humor provided by the babies and some perceptive cameramen. The parade of infants was interrupted frequently for such sage observations as, "Mother is the architect who designs the child's world."

There was a marvelous moment when a very young Alexander was the subject of an experiment that involved what looked like a cherry on the end of a stick. An eager young scientist was poking the stick at him when Alexander closed his eyes and went to sleep. Nothing, including nudging from the young scientist frantically aware she was letting the show down, disturbed him.

One charming segment showed an assortment of babies attempting in a variety of ways to graduate from crawling to walking. Each effort ended suddenly with a bump on the floor and it was all done to a light, witty musical accompaniment.

ABC pre-empted a rerun of Danny Thomas' situation comedy to give six Democratic senators each an avowed or potential presidential candidate—an opportunity to answer the Nixon administration position on Indochina.

With the exception of Henry M. Jackson of Washington each senator called for a set date for total withdrawal. Each speaker was given a few minutes to outline his position. They were Hubert H. Humphrey, of Minnesota, George S. McGovern of South Dakota, Birch Bayh of Indiana, Jackson, Harold E. Hughes of Iowa and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

The form of the program was basic and standard: Each man faced a camera and read his piece. Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien opened and closed the program, summarizing and stating that his party would continue to demand network time to put forward its position.

Public broadcasting's "Net Playhouse," in its series of biographical drama, focused this week on the earlier years of the Victorian novelist, Marianne Evans who achieved fame under the pen name George Eliot. The imported British film was slow moving and tedious.

Middletown Hit By Outbreak Of Hepatitis

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — Health officials today were attempting to track down the cause of an increase in infectious hepatitis in the Middletown area over the past month.

Dr. Robert F. McConaughy, health commissioner, reported Thursday that 20 cases were reported in the last month. Normally there are less than five a year in the city of 50,000 people, he said.

"The cases are scattered and there doesn't seem to be any common source unless it is contact," Dr. McConaughy said.

"We are of the opinion that no bad food or water is involved."

Most of the cases involved children, he said.

Circleville Junior Women Attend Club's Convention

Members of Circleville Junior Women's Club attended the 74th annual Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs Convention recently in Cincinnati. The local club served as hostesses for the Central Ohio River District. The theme this year was "This Land Is Ours."

The Tuesday session opened with passing of resolutions and making revisions. Voting delegates from Circleville were Mrs. Robert Holycross and Mrs. Robert Liggett. Other members attending were Mrs. Robert Lundberg, Mrs. Richard Schmachtenberger, Mrs. James Palm, Mrs. Robert Ogden, Mrs. Wayne Hatfield, Mrs. David Allard, Mrs. James Stoneburner, Mrs. Robert Doll, Mrs. Donald Marquart, Mrs.

Robert Hedges and Mrs. Earl Wolfe.

The keynote address was delivered by Martha Roundtree, originator of Meet the Press and founder of the Leadership Foundation. She reminded the women that the women's vote in this country is three to one and that Communists are inspiring our youth.

She challenged them with the facts that morality is impossible, crime on the streets deplorable and the drug problem desperate, while our legislators sit on their hands and do nothing. She said that we must win the war in Vietnam whether it is a moral war or not, not play pingpong with the Red Chinese while they supply dope to our youth. She also charged that 60 to 80 per cent of our troops are on drugs. She stated that the Federal Narcotic Commission pleaded and warned that Red China was going to rot the United States of America from within but no one would listen. She added that we have advertised sex so much that like some toothpastes it has become a craze.

This fall the speaker will have a television show entitled "Women Take A Stand" and a door to door campaign against smut.

The session was followed by the junior luncheon with the theme "Up, Up And Away." Circleville Junior Women's Club were hostesses for this event and made many red and white flowered balloons for centerpieces and also the programs. An informal style show was conducted during the luncheon. Mrs. Robert Crago, OFWC director of juniors presided and the speaker, Miss Joan Buchanan, spoke to the women of "Look To This Day." Achievement awards for projects completed in the past year were given. Circleville Junior Women won first place in the Central Ohio River District in public affairs, education department, and international affairs. They won third place in home life.

After workshops in the afternoon they attended the junior banquet "Symphony Of Service." Following introduction of officers and awards presentation the Cincinnati Men's Glee Club, directed by John Lemon, presented a splendid performance.

Speaker for the evening was Danny Scholl, receiver of the National Handicap Award and Eastern Seal chairman for the state of Ohio. His story was of "Prayer And Guts." After much personal tragedy and 18,000 letters in the one-and-a-half months he spent in hospitals he came out to give up his profession as a performer and donate his services to God. He sang his new record "No Man Is An Island" which he is donating the proceeds from to Easter Seals and March of Dimes.

Later in the evening an open house was conducted with the rooms decorated in the western motif where all attending relaxed in fellowship.

Before returning home Wednesday the women attended a junior meeting and discussed Project Concern, Healthy Baby, the National Assn. of Retarded Children as possible projects.

Circleville officers will have a practice Sunday, April 25th at 2:30 p.m. for their inspection to be held on Tuesday, April 27th, at 8 p.m.

At the close of the meeting, everyone was invited to the spring decorated dining room for delicious refreshments. The serving table was centered with a fresh flower arrangement and candles. Other spring bouquets made by Mrs. George Bowling were displayed throughout the room. Those serving refreshments were Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. George Bowling and Mrs. George Haney.

OVERALL FUN—Larry Mahan, big money winner on the rodeo circuit, models in New York Jantzen's "Spirit of '76" overalls complete with flags and "Don't Tread on Me" slogans. The fun outfit has been a phenomenon at beaches.

LaSertoma Club Meets

Projects were discussed during the Wednesday evening meeting of LaSertoma Club in the home of Mrs. Wayne Hatfield, Route 1.

Mrs. H. H. Shuttleworth showed slides and gave an informative narrative of her and Dr. Shuttleworth's recent missionary trip to the Congo in Africa. Mrs. Shuttleworth also showed various articles which they purchased during their stay in the Congo.

During the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Larry Lewis, president, the members discussed the money-making project of selling school record books. Reports were also made of service hours for Sertoma Pancake Day and the club's sponsorships, Pickaway Manor, Well Child Clinic and Brooks-Yates School. Members voted to make a contribution toward the expenses of Mrs. Dottie Currence, regional director of LaSertoma.

A dessert course was served by the co-hostess, Mrs. Steve Yost, to Mrs. Charles Carle Jr., Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Hatfield, Mrs. Robert Scranton, Mrs. David Sealock, Mrs. Bruce Stevenson Jr., Mrs. Ted Williams and Mrs. Wayne Fry, a guest for the evening.

Cincy Sets Speeded Mail Flow

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Post Office Thursday inaugurated guaranteed next-day delivery mail service with 29 cities in the Mid-west, North-east and South.

Postmaster Joseph Scanlon said the service, from all branches in the Cincinnati area, was in line with an announcement April 12 by U. S. Postmaster General Winton M. Blount.

Blount said a July deadline for the service would handle 2.25 million pieces of mail daily throughout the nation.

New white and blue mail boxes have been installed outside all post office branches as well as the main branch downtown.

Scanlon said the 29 cities named for one day service were: Atlanta, Baltimore, Birmingham, Bronx, Syracuse, Buffalo, Flushing, Jamaica, Brooklyn, New York City and Rochester, N. J., Camden, Jersey City, Newark and Trenton, N. J., Charlotte and Greensboro, N. C., Little Rock, Ark., Madison and Milwaukee, Wis., Miami and Tampa, Fla., Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minn., Norfolk and Richmond, Va., Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and Washington D. C.

Milk is a glamorous refresher when served in frosted glasses with a whipped cream garnish. To frost glasses dip rims of chilled glasses into unbeaten egg whites, then into confectioner's sugar.

IRS Probes Ohio Election

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Five U.S. Internal Revenue Service employees Thursday began searching files of last year's U. S. Senate and Congress races in Ohio.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said the four men and a woman came in unannounced and asked to see the records. They started searching the

ments and taking notes from them.

One of the agents, when asked their business, told a newsman:

"I can't tell you."

They said they were from the IRS office at Cincinnati.

Brown said he had no idea what the agents were after.

"They are public records," he said, "available to anyone."

The IRS agents gave their names as Robert Robinson, Louis Brown, Martha Landenberger, George Invalle and John Chaney.

Ohio had contests for the U.S.
Senate seat filled last year and for 23 of its 24 congressional seats.

Sen. Robert Taft Jr., Republican, won the general election over Democrat Howard Metzenbaum.

In the primary election, Taft's main opponent was former Gov.
James A. Rhodes and Metzenbaum's stiffest opposition was former astronaut John Glenn.

With these young pups, that worried look isn't real. You might call it a physiological illusion. The whole problem is that their heads haven't grown enough to fill out the wrinkles in their brows.

But with people a worried look is usually real. It reflects the deep concerns that trouble our world and lives.

Yet worry isn't going to improve the world. Its only real value is that it encourages us to seek solutions where they can be found. The best thing to replace worry with is FAITH.

Through the centuries man has found hope and courage in the truths of religion. God never meant us to solve our problems alone. Perhaps our most perplexing problem today is that too many people have been trying to do just that!

Claim U.S.
Eyed North
Viet Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale has told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he has letters indicating U.S. forces planned a ground attack in North Vietnam early this year.

The raid, which Mondale said was to have occurred at the Vinh airfield 100 miles north of the demilitarized zone, apparently never occurred.

The Minnesota Democrat said Wednesday the letters came from an officer on a ship off Vietnam. He did not identify the writer.

He said the officer wrote a friend Feb. 7, telling of the planned raid. A second letter, dated March 11, gave the location of the proposed raid and added:

"Don't know if they ever seriously considered committing us—but the helicopters rehearsed daily and a Russian trawler shadowed us."

A Mondale aide said the Vinh facility is used chiefly as a troop transit point. He said other parts of the letters make clear the two companies considered for the raid were American troops.

The Pentagon said there were

Manson Taken
To San Quentin

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Convicted slayer Charles Manson was removed from his cell here and taken to San Quentin Prison Thursday, sources said.

There was no official confirmation either from Los Angeles or prison officials, but the sources said Manson was removed from jail about 5 a.m. and taken to San Quentin for processing.

The sources said they understood Manson, convicted in the murder of Sharon Tate and six others, was being taken to the "death row" receiving section for routine processing before admittance.

Moviemakers Seek Way Out Of Money Woes

EDITOR'S NOTE— The U.S. movie industry is in bad shape. Actors and technicians are out of work, and the big studios show red ink on their ledgers. The following second of two articles tells how it got that way and what movie makers feel is necessary to restore the industry's health.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The street is quiet now.

Just three years ago, 2,500 extras paraded down the reproduction of 1900 New York with Barbra Streisand leading the brass band. The music has faded away, and the $20-million gamble on "Hello, Dolly!" failed to pay off.

That and other miscalculations by president and production chief of 20th Century-Fox and Darryl F. Zanuck as chief executive officer.

Today not a single camera turns at the studio which the elder Zanuck founded in 1935. The commissary is closed, and anxious employees are awaiting word of the future from a new management.

The plight of 20th Century-Fox, which lost $102.5 million in the past two years, is the most dire example of the general malaise that has struck the film industry. Its woes received national attention recently with a conference at the Western White House where President Nixon met with industry leaders to discuss industry problems and possible relief.

The San Clemente conference caused many citizens to wonder why the movie business has gone sour and why so many actors and technicians are out of work and why so few films are being made in the United States.

Americans have more leisure time and money than ever, and the nation's youth have adopted films as their "thing." Yet the industry is ailing. Nixon was told that only three film companies made a profit last year. Only one movie out of five repays its backers.

The industry's woes began in 1948. That was the year that the United States decreed film studios had to get rid of their theater holdings for antitrust reasons. Thus producers could no longer be assured of playing time for their movies.

Television also began encroaching on the movies' domain in 1948. Within a few years, television replaced films as the nation's popular entertainment.

Hit by rising labor costs in Hollywood, film companies sought relief abroad. They found it.

"The three major film-making countries in Europe—England, Italy and France—all have subsidies that make it attractive to shoot over there," says producer M.J. Frankovich, who attended the Nixon conference. "In fact, every film-making country does it—except the United States."

The lure of overseas filming can be seen in the recent production chart. Twenty-three American-financed films were being shot in Europe, Africa, Israel, Mexico and Canada. Seven films were being made outside California, from Ocala, Fla., to Chicago.

Twenty were in production on real-life locations around Los Angeles; most of these were small budget independents. Only one major movie, "Skin Game" with James Garner was filming at a major studio.

Critics of the new morality in films claim that the movie industry brought on at least part of its troubles by alienating the family audience.

"There is a lot of logic in that," admits Charlton Heston, president of the Screen Actors Guild. "We may well have fragmented the audience by making movies for increasingly divergent tastes." He cited the decline of weekly film attendance from a high of 80 million 20 years ago to the present 17.5 million, adding ruefully, "We'll never see those days again."

Already hit by the attendance decline, the industry was further damaged last year by the Federal Communications Commission cutback in television network prime time. The impact of the order was explained by John Lehnert, head of the AFL Film Council.

"The networks lost 10 1/2 hours of programming. Divided into half-hour shows, that would mean the loss of 21 series. The minimum crew of a television series is 35 people. So the FCC order meant a potential of 700 jobs down the drain.

"Not only have those jobs been lost. The networks have also cut back on the orders for new shows and are running more repeats. That also means the loss of work time."

Honor Girl
For Racial Harmony

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Mary Perkins, an 11-year-old white girl who gave up her Christmas savings to buy gifts for black children, is being honored by a black sorority here.

"Mary is the youngest exponent of interracial peace we know of," said Dorthula H. Wright of the Pittsburgh alumnae chapter of Delta Sigma Theta.

"Many black children are so bitter that we felt it was absolutely necessary for them to know a white Southern girl did a kind deed for a black family."

Mary, a sixth grader in Sweetwater, Fla., had read of a black family, the Floyd Crawfords, who were evicted from their apartment shortly before Christmas. The black police officer who had been ordered to evict them gave the family $30 to pay their lodging for the night.

So Mary decided to take the four Crawford children Christmas shopping.

On Christmas Day, Mary was beaten and later harassed by a group of white teen-agers who taunted her with cries of "nigger-lover."

Mrs. Wright believes Delta Sigma Theta is the first black group to honor Mary. On May 8, she will receive their Social Action Humanitarian Award. She'll also visit some schools here.

There's another big problem
Preforan eliminates

Manhours.

Preforan works where you work. In the field. And on your really big problems, like jimson, wild mustard and foxtail.

But Preforan does more than help you increase soybean yields. Preforan decreases the time you spend getting them.

Preforan doesn't need to be incorporated. So you save that costly extra trip across the field. Preforan gives such consistent control you'll less need for hand or machine cultivation. Preforan in the field means a clean crop. And that means faster combining. Plus less time for weed seed dockage at the bin.

Preforan, the closest thing yet to your perfect weed killer.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Chesapeake & Ohio - Baltimore & Ohio railroad has signed a $9.5 million contract to join AMTRAK, which is taking over the nation's rail passenger service May 1.

The railroad also announced that the proposed merger with the Norfolk and Western Railway had been cancelled because of the "bankruptcy of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Boston and Maine and the weakened financial position of the Reading."

Hays T. Watkins Jr., president and chief executive officer of the C&O-B&O, said the $9.5 million "entrance fee" into the National Rail Passenger Corp. is one-half of the railroad's 1969 intercity passenger deficit of $19 million.

The "fee" will be paid at the rate of $264,000 a month for three years and CO-BO "also will make protection payments to train crews and others who will be affected," said Watkins, adding that "we hope to absorb many of them into our other operations."

Labor protection costs will approach $5 million over the next two years, he added.

Watkins said that relief from passenger train losses will help improve this year's financial results "and more significantly, those of future years."

At a shareholders meeting, Watkins said that assuming there are no major work interruptions in coal mining, steel or railroading, 1971 earnings are expected to top 1970 results.

Trial Set
At Lancaster

LANCASTER, Ohio (AP) — Two Queen City youths go on trial in Common Pleas Court here Monday in the shooting last August 23 of Cincinnati Patrolman Edmund Schindler.

The shooting occurred in Cincinnati but Judge Gilbert Bettman of the Hamilton County Common Pleas Court granted a change of venue in the case of Clifford Davenport, 20, and Gerard Harvey, 21. They contended they could not get a fair trial in Hamilton County.

The defendants, who are black, also asked that they not be tried in Lancaster because there are few Negroes living in Fairfield County, but Bettman refused to grant the motion.

Schindler was shot as he sat alone in his patrol car in the Avondale section of Cincinnati. Schindler, 28, was listed in critical condition for a few days.

Davenport and Harvey were arrested during a shootout with police Sept. 1. They were both charged with shooting with intent to kill in the wounding of Schindler.

The Role of the Prophet

EXPERIENCES OF SOME PROPHETS
SENT TO ISRAEL

Scripture—Isaiah 6:1-8; Hosea 8:1-3; Amos 3:1-8; Micah 3:5-8.

By R. H. RAMSEY

FROM ancient times the world has witnessed the coming and going of persons who have been called prophets. Many of these soothsayers, diviners and other seers obtained their visions through drugs, holding their breaths, muttering magic phrases and spells, or other means. And the results were always exactly what the "prophet" wished for or wanted when he was not in his trance-like state.

Prophetic activity was common in ancient times, and it is still practiced in some parts of the world today. Still there is a quality of message and life present in the Hebrew prophets that is not found elsewhere. Many were men of ordinary background and humble occupation. Yet they were spiritual giants whose words have lived. They were men whom the Lord called to serve Him, to whom He revealed His message. Their role was that of God's messengers, under divine compulsion to speak the words that God gave appeared and spoken to them, specifically calling them to His work.

Amos was a shepherd and gatherer of sycamore fruits in a little hill town south of Jerusalem. As such he often visited Jerusalem and other nearby cities and the paganism, injustices and wickedness he saw there distressed him. Then God called him to warn a disintegrating Israel of His justice and judgment to come if she persisted in her wickedness.

The people were God's people, chosen for a great destiny. With that choice came a responsibility that could only be met by living as God wished them to live and remaining faithful to His covenant. Amos reminded them of their favored position with God and declared that because they had been so highly privileged they would be all the more accountable to the Lord's justice.

Hosea also lived in the Northern Kingdom of Israel and was probably a contemporary of Amos. He prophesied to Israel them to speak.

For the balance of this quarter we will be studying four of these prophets: Amos, Hosea, Isaiah and Micah. And in this lesson we will briefly consider each one's role as a prophet of God.

The logical place to begin is with God's call to Isaiah. It came in the same year in which King Uzziah died, Isaiah was apparently in the temple when God appeared to him. Seeing His majesty and holiness Isaiah was filled with a sense of his own unworthiness and uncleanness, and he confessed this. In the vision Isaiah's lips were touched with a live coal, symbolizing his purification and forgiveness. Then God asked whom He could send, who would take His message to the people. Isaiah's response was immediate, simple and straightforward: "Here am I; send me."

This type of conviction was a motivating factor with all the prophets. To a man they were certain that God Himself had during the period of political unrest and religious backsliding that occurred just prior to the Assyrian conquest. Seeing the approaching ruin of his people Hosea warned of the certainty of God's judgment. The people had professed to know God but they had broken their covenant with Him and transgressed His law. They had "spurned the good" and the consequences would be evil, the enemy would pursue them.

Like Isaiah, Micah was a citizen of the Southern Kingdom of Judah and undoubtedly a contemporary, though Isaiah was a native of Jerusalem and Micah of Moresheth, about 20 miles from the city. Like Amos he saw the oppression of the poor and denounced the exploitation of the people by false prophets whose only motive was personal profit. By contrast, Micah declared, he was led by the spirit of God. He could not be bribed or swayed, but would proclaim the simple truth of their sins and iniquities to the people as God had told him to do.

Claim U.S. Eyed North Viet Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale has told the State Foreign Relations Committee he has letters indicating U.S. forces planned a ground attack in North Vietnam early this year.

The raid, which Mondale said was to have occurred at the Vinh airfield 100 miles north of the demilitarized zone, apparently never occurred.

The Minnesota Democrat said Wednesday the letters came from an officer on a ship off Vietnam. He did not identify the writer.

He said the officer wrote a friend Feb. 7, telling of the planned raid. A second letter, dated March 11, gave the location of the proposed raid and added:

"Don't know if they ever seriously considered committing us—but the helicopters rehearsed daily and a Russian trawler shadowed us."

A Mondale aide said the Vinh facility is used chiefly as a troop transit point. He said other parts of the letters make clear the two companies considered for the raid were American troops.

There was no official confirmation either from Los Angeles or prison officials, but the sources said Manson was removed from jail about 5 a.m. and taken to San Quentin for processing.

The sources said they understood Manson, convicted in the murder of Sharon Tate and six others, was being taken to the "death row" receiving section for routine processing before admittance.

Moviemakers Seek Way Out Of Money Woes

EDITOR'S NOTE— The U.S. movie industry is in bad shape. Actors and technicians are out of work, and the big studios show red ink on their ledgers. The following second of two articles tells how it got that way and what movie makers feel is necessary to restore the industry's health.

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The street is quiet now.

Just three years ago, 2,500 extras paraded down the reproduction of 1900 New York with Barbra Streisand leading the brass band. The music has faded away, and the $20-million gamble on "Hello, Dolly!" failed to pay off.

That and other miscalculations by president and production chief of 20th Century-Fox and Darryl F. Zanuck as chief executive officer.

Today not a single camera turns at the studio which the elder Zanuck founded in 1935. The commissary is closed, and anxious employees are awaiting word of the future from a new management.

The plight of 20th Century-Fox, which lost $102.5 million in the past two years, is the most dire example of the general malaise that has struck the film industry. Its woes received national attention recently with a conference at the Western White House where President Nixon met with industry leaders to discuss industry problems and possible relief.

The San Clemente conference caused many citizens to wonder why the movie business has gone sour and why so many actors and technicians are out of work and why so few films are being made in the United States.

Americans have more leisure time and money than ever, and the nation's youth have adopted films as their "thing." Yet the industry is ailing. Nixon was told that only three film companies made a profit last year. Only one movie out of five repays its backers.

The industry's woes began in 1948. That was the year that the United States decreed film studios had to get rid of their theater holdings for antitrust reasons. Thus producers could no longer be assured of playing time for their movies.

Television also began encroaching on the movies' domain in 1948. Within a few years, television replaced films as the nation's popular entertainment.

Hit by rising labor costs in Hollywood, film companies sought relief abroad. They found it.

"The three major film-making countries in Europe—England, Italy and France—all have subsidies that make it attractive to shoot over there," says producer M.J. Frankovich, who attended the Nixon conference. "In fact, every film-making country does it—except the United States."

The lure of overseas filming can be seen in the recent production chart. Twenty-three American-financed films were being shot in Europe, Africa, Israel, Mexico and Canada. Seven films were being made outside California, from Ocala, Fla., to Chicago.

Twenty were in production on real-life locations around Los Angeles; most of these were small budget independents. Only one major movie, "Skin Game" with James Garner was filming at a major studio.

Critics of the new morality in films claim that the movie industry brought on at least part of its troubles by alienating the family audience.

"There is a lot of logic in that," admits Charlton Heston, president of the Screen Actors Guild. "We may well have fragmented the audience by making movies for increasingly divergent tastes." He cited the decline of weekly film attendance from a high of 80 million 20 years ago to the present 17.5 million, adding ruefully, "We'll never see those days again."

Already hit by the attendance

decline, the industry was further damaged last year by the Federal Communications Commission cutback in television network prime time. The impact of the order was explained by John Lehnert, head of the AFL Film Council.

"The networks lost 10½ hours of programming. Divided into half-hour shows, that would mean the loss of 21 series. The minimum crew of a television series is 35 people. So the FCC order meant a potential of 700 jobs down the drain.

"Not only have those jobs been lost. The networks have also cut back on the orders for new shows and are running more repeats. That also means the loss of work time."

Honor Girl For Racial Harmony

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Mary Perkins, an 11-year-old white girl who gave up her Christmas savings to buy gifts for black children, is being honored by a black sorority here.

"Mary is the youngest exponent of interracial peace we know of," said Dorthula H. Wright of the Pittsburgh alumnae chapter of Delta Sigma Theta.

"Many black children are so bitter that we felt it was absolutely necessary for them to know a white Southern girl did a kind deed for a black family."

Mary, a sixth grader in Sweetwater, Fla., had read of a black family, the Floyd Crawfords, who were evicted from their apartment shortly before Christmas. The black police officer who had been ordered to evict them gave the family $30 to pay their lodging for the night.

So Mary decided to take the four Crawford children Christmas shopping.

On Christmas Day, Mary was beaten and later harassed by a group of white teenagers who taunted her with cries of "nigger-lover."

Mrs. Wright believes Delta Sigma Theta is the first black group to honor Mary. On May 8, she will receive their Social Action Humanitarian Award. She'll also visit some schools here.

There's another big problem Preforan eliminates besides weeds:

Manhours.

Preforan works where you work. In the field. And on your really big problems, like jimson, wild mustard and foxtail.

But Preforan does more than help you increase soybean yields. Preforan decreases the time you spend getting them.

Preforan doesn't need to be incorporated. So you save that costly extra trip across the field. Preforan gives such consistent control you'll less need for hand or machine cultivation. Preforan in the field means a clean crop. And that means faster combining. Plus less time for weed seed dockage at the bin.

Boggs Again Attacks FBI; Asked To Prove His Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs says an unchecked FBI is undermining liberty with secret spying, but he is still being asked to prove his case.

The Louisiana congressman, renewing his demand that J. Edgar Hoover resign as FBI director, sharpened his attack in a House speech Thursday. He said the FBI is moving steadily toward thought control of the American people.

Boggs added only one new item to back up his previous charge that the FBI tapped the telephones of congressmen. He said a phone company investigator had determined a private line to his home had been tapped.

He said another example he was relying on, involving FBI eavesdropping on the conversations of a Texas congressman, was disclosed last week by the Justice Department in an effort to blunt his attack.

Hoover's supporters in the administration and the House, including two former FBI agents, accused Boggs of trying to discredit the FBI and said he

Local Man Named To Highway Post

JOSEPH A. ROONEY

Joseph A. Rooney, Circleville, has been appointed general superintendent for southern counties of Division Six of the Ohio Department of Highways.

Black students asked the college Tuesday to increase financial aid, hire more black administrators and faculty, provide a black cultural center and begin a black studies program.

The demands followed a month of inter-racial discussions on the campus.

College officials said classes and office activities have been shifted to other buildings on campus.

About 20 staff members normally work in the building.

A college spokesman said "un-inauguration" activities for the school's new president, Robert E. Hinshaw, would continue this weekend as scheduled.

The "un-inauguration" is a series of lecture-study programs the college is holding in lieu of regular ceremonies.

Germany Seen Enemy By Blacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major American civil rights organization says German discrimination against black GIs is so serious the Negro troops rate the NATO ally a hostile nation.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urged the Defense Department to assume all responsibility for leasing off-base housing facilities and in turn sublet them to American GIs without discrimination.

"The burden of fighting German landlord discrimination would then be rightfully shifted from the shoulders of individual Negro servicemen to those of the American government," the NAACP said in a report submitted Thursday to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Although the NAACP said it found serious problems in the administration of military justice and severe inequities in the Army and Air Force's promotion systems, the housing situation was "without question the most pervasive problem confronting Negro soldiers in West Germany."

"It, more than any other problem, caused blacks to regard Germany as an unfriendly country and to wonder aloud why they should be stationed there," the NAACP said.

The 55-page report was prepared by two NAACP attorneys and the organization's veterans affairs director following a three-week survey earlier this year during which they interviewed scores of black soldiers in Germany.

had failed to substantiate his charges.

Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., who spent 10 years in the FBI, said he was "shocked, disgusted and nauseated by the stench of red herring in this chamber."

The debate over the FBI held the House floor for two hours in a followup to Boggs' April 5th speech in which he first called for Hoover's resignation.

FBI and Justice Department spokesmen have denied repeatedly Boggs' charge that the FBI had tapped the phones of congressmen and demanded his proof. Boggs' Thursday speech was in response to such demands.

Boggs said through congressional apathy, of which he himself was guilty, "I have seen the size of the sweep of the FBI grow and widen and steadily move into closer and closer surveillance of not only the deeds, but the words and thoughts of the American people."

At the same time, Boggs said, "we have seen instance after instance of the director himself conducting himself in ways which no responsible law enforcement executive would permit himself to emulate."

Boggs cited Hoover's attacks on the late Martin Luther King and his disclosure of the alleged plot to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and blow up the Washington heating system four months in advance of indictments in the case.

Udall Sees Large Role For Young

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former U. S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall predicted Thursday that creative thinking of the young will lead to basic changes in the lives of all Americans.

"The next few years are going to be the most interesting in the history of this country since its founding," Udall said at two Earth Week gatherings at the University of Cincinnati.

"We have all too often left man out in the drive for production for consumption," Udall said, adding that actions must be viewed in terms of what they will do for people.

He said the recent defeat of the Supersonic Transport (SST) program constitutes a step toward a "humanistic" outlook of environment.

"The environment must be thought of in a holistic and humanistic way," explaining that programs must be carried out in light of what they will do for people.

He said headway would not be made unless the government spends less on the military and space program and more on cities and the recycling of wastes.

Udall, who served in the cabinet for eight years through the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, said he thought it was good that "people are fighting progress" in an effort to impose a new set of values, suggesting that there may be better alternatives.

"We are beginning to get a picture at the end of the vista where we think there are no limits" on consumption and production and "it's imperative that we begin to recognize limits."

He said he did not think environmental awareness was a fad.

"It is growing," he said.

Ohio Assembly Eyes Auto Dealer Protection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — A showdown between automotive manufacturers and their dealers is looming in the Ohio General Assembly.

The dealers, through the Ohio Association of Automobile Dealers, are asking for a law to protect them from too much dictation from manufacturers.

"Legislative controls are needed to prevent injustices to dealer groups," said David Mainwaring, chief lobbyist for the auto dealers.

The major manufacturers, with the possible exception of General Motors, will have representatives on hand Wednesday to oppose a bill now in the Senate that would protect dealers.

Dealers, according to their association, are often forced to expand facilities when they can't afford it or take in a partner they may not want.

Then, according to Mainwaring, they take the rap when the factory "lays an egg" with a new model.

The bill, now before the Senate Committee on Urban and Highway Affairs, would spell out what a manufacturer couldn't force a dealer to do. Mainwaring is a former Alliance mayor and football coach. He was Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes' first director of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

He is generally well liked by both Democratic and Republican legislators. Urban and Highway Affairs Committee chairman, Sen. Robert Stockdale, R-31 Kent, is a personal friend of the dealer lobbyist.

House Republican leadership and state GOP headquarters can't seem to get their actions coordinated.

Boggs Again Attacks FBI; Asked To Prove His Case

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic Leader Hale Boggs says an unchecked FBI is undermining liberty with secret spying, but he is still being asked to prove his case.

The Louisiana congressman, renewing his demand that J. Edgar Hoover resign as FBI director, sharpened his attack in a House speech Thursday. He said the FBI is moving steadily toward thought control of the American people.

Boggs added only one new item to back up his previous charge that the FBI tapped the telephones of congressmen. He said a phone company investigator had determined a private line to his home had been tapped.

He said another example he was relying on, involving FBI eavesdropping on the conversations of a Texas congressman, was disclosed last week by the Justice Department in an effort to blunt his attack.

Hoover's supporters in the administration and the House, including two former FBI agents, accused Boggs of trying to discredit the FBI and said he had failed to substantiate his charges.

Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., who spent 10 years in the FBI, said he was "shocked, disgusted and nauseated by the stench of red herring in this chamber."

The debate over the FBI held the House floor for two hours in a followup to Boggs' April 5th speech in which he first called for Hoover's resignation.

FBI and Justice Department spokesmen have denied repeatedly Boggs' charge that the FBI had tapped the phones of congressmen and demanded his proof. Boggs' Thursday speech was in response to such demands.

Boggs said through congressional apathy, of which he himself was guilty, "I have seen the size of the sweep of the FBI grow and widen and steadily move into closer and closer surveillance of not only the deeds, but the words and thoughts of the American people."

At the same time, Boggs said, "we have seen instance after instance of the director himself conducting himself in ways which no responsible law enforcement executive would permit himself to emulate."

Boggs cited Hoover's attacks on the late Martin Luther King and his disclosure of the alleged plot to kidnap presidential aide Henry Kissinger and blow up the Washington heating system four months in advance of indictments in the case.

Black Students Start Protest At Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Some 25 to 30 black students occupied the administration building at Wilmington College this morning.

College officials said entrances to College Hall had been blocked, but that otherwise the campus was quiet.

A black representative of the Community Relations Division of the Justice Department was expected on campus later in the day to negotiate with the students.

Black students asked the college Tuesday to increase financial aid, hire more black administrators and faculty, provide a black cultural center and begin a black studies program.

The demands followed a month of inter-racial discussions on the campus.

College officials said classes and office activities have been shifted to other buildings on campus.

About 20 staff members normally work in the building.

A college spokesman said "un-inauguration" activities for the school's new president, Robert E. Hinshaw, would continue this weekend as scheduled.

The "un-inauguration" is a series of lecture-study programs the college is holding in lieu of regular ceremonies.

Germany Seen Enemy By Blacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — A major American civil rights organization says German discrimination against black GIs is so serious the Negro troops rate the NATO ally a hostile nation.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People urged the Defense Department to assume all responsibility for leasing off-base housing facilities and in turn sublet them to American GIs without discrimination.

"The burden of fighting German landlord discrimination would then be rightfully shifted from the shoulders of individual Negro servicemen to those of the American government," the NAACP said in a report submitted Thursday to Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Although the NAACP said it found serious problems in the administration of military justice and severe inequities in the Army and Air Force's promotion systems, the housing situation was "without question the most pervasive problem confronting Negro soldiers in West Germany."

"It more than any other problem, caused blacks to regard Germany as an unfriendly country and to wonder aloud why they should be stationed there," the NAACP said.

The 55-page report was prepared by two NAACP attorneys and the organization's veterans affairs director following a three-week survey earlier this year during which they interviewed scores of black soldiers in Germany.

Ohio Assembly Eyes Auto Dealer Protection

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A showdown between automotive manufacturers and their dealers is looming in the Ohio General Assembly.

The dealers, through the Ohio Association of Automobile Dealers, are asking for a law to protect them from too much dictation from manufacturers.

"Legislative controls are needed to prevent injustices to dealer groups," said David Mainwaring, chief lobbyist for the auto dealers.

The major manufacturers, with the possible exception of General Motors, will have representatives on hand Wednesday to oppose a bill now in the Senate that would protect dealers.

Dealers, according to their association, are often forced to expand facilities when they can't afford it or take in a partner they may not want.

Then, according to Mainwaring, they take the rap when the factory "lays an egg" with a new model.

The bill, now before the Senate Committee on Urban and Highway Affairs, would spell out what a manufacturer couldn't force a dealer to do. Mainwaring is a former Alliance mayor and football coach. He was Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes' first director of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

He is generally well liked by both Democratic and Republican legislators. Urban and Highway Affairs Committee chairman, Sen. Robert Stockdale, R-31 Kent, is a personal friend of the dealer lobbyist.

House Republican leadership and state GOP headquarters can't seem to get their actions coordinated.

GOP State Chairman John Andrews says he will see if the appointment of Frank D. Ray as Small Business Administration director can be revoked. On the same day the Ohio House was honoring Ray.

Udall Sees Large Role For Young

CINCINNATI (AP) — Former U. S. Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall predicted Thursday that creative thinking of the young will lead to basic changes in the lives of all Americans.

"The next few years are going to be the most interesting in the history of this country since its founding," Udall said at two Earth Week gatherings at the University of Cincinnati.

"We have all too often left man out in the drive for production for consumption," Udall said, adding that actions must be viewed in terms of what they will do for people.

He said the recent defeat of the Supersonic Transport (SST) program constitutes a step toward a "humanistic" outlook of environment.

"The environment must be thought of in a wholistic and humanistic way," explaining that programs must be carried out in light of what they will do for people.

He said headway would not be made unless the government spends less on the military and space program and more on cities and the recycling of wastes.

Udall, who served in the cabinet for eight years through the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, said he thought it was good that "people are fighting progress" in an effort to impose a new set of values, suggesting that there may be better alternatives.

"We are beginning to get a picture at the end of the vista where we think there are no limits" on consumption and production and "it's imperative that we begin to recognize limits."

He said he did not think environmental awareness was a fad.

"It is growing," he said.

Library Aides Attend Confab At Wittenberg

By CAROLE WYLIE
"Mixed Media" was the theme of the 21st annual Ohio Student Librarian Association Conference.

The event of last Friday and Saturday was held on the campus of Wittenberg University in Springfield. Tracy Ferguson, Sharon Lemaster, and CHS librarian, Mrs. Betty Lovenshimer attended the conference. CHS was one of 15 schools to become a new member of OSLA.

Friday night was established as a time to mix with the delegates and get to know them. Everyone participated in the evening activities by making posters for candidates running for OSLA offices. Tracy and Sharon won honorable mention for their posters. Skits were also given as entertainment for the group of over 400.

Saturday morning Dr. Glenn H. Daniels, Director of University Instructional Media Center at Bowling Green State University, presented a program entitled "Creative Media in the Classroom." Dr. Daniels used three screens to give a three dimensional effect to his slides. Following this presentation a panel discussion on "Silence" in the library was held. The general consensus of 36 Ohio High Schools represented was that a library can not maintain an absolute quiet anymore.

The afternoon program included Miss Sue Brown, representing OSLA and Miss Ivana Cahill from Kent State University. Miss Cahill's program was entitled the "Do It Yourself Angle." The conclusion of the weekend conference was the installation of new officers in an impressive candlelight ceremony.

Sharon Lemaster was the delegate that did the voting for CHS. She found the entire program "very interesting with lots of good points to offer." Tracy Ferguson also found that there were many new and different ideas presented that made her think.

Next year's annual meeting will be at Capital University.

Science is becoming a highlight at CHS. Advanced Science instructor, William Brooke, escorted two of his students to the Regional Science Fair at Otterbein College in Westerville, April 16 and 17.

Both boys attending did excellent performances and they put a lot of hard work into their projects.

Doyle Kiser devoted a great deal of his time to a project entitled "The Observation of Characteristic Behavior of Reddised Daces." Doyle stated, "The field of contestants was small with the competition being very strong; consequently, the Regional Science Fair was made very interesting."

Chuck Whitfield, the other student attending, devoted his time on the project "The Interaction of Subatomic Particles in the Nucleus." Chuck stated, "The competition was very great; I was proud to be noticed by the judges for my project."

Chuck came home with an honorable mention award. This is truly an asset not only to Chuck, but also to CHS, which is very proud of this accomplishment!

Seniors Visit State House

This six weeks Mr. Goeglein has encouraged his government students to contact and interview a state or local government official.

Sarah Knox and Mary K. Lucas were granted an interview with this district's senator, Harry Armstrong, and on April 19 these girls spent an interesting day at the State House where they gained a better understanding of the functions of state government.

There they viewed a committee hearing as well as the Senate and House in session. During their interview with Senator Armstrong, they discussed such things as lowering the voting age, vocational education, and new legislation. The climax of the trip was their introduction on the Senate floor and getting to talk briefly to the lieutenant governor.

Many of that day's activities were taped to be used later in a presentation for the government classes.

Annual Senior Class Play Opens Tonight

What is it? Where is it? When is it? Tonight! Tomorrow night!

Leave your cares, your problems, your worries at home because "You Can't Take It With You!" Spend a carefree night at CHS and view the funniest, the most imaginative play ever performed on this stage.

It may not be a Broadway hit and the actors may not be from Hollywood, but you will sit and chuckle at these characters as they carry on in their hilariously eccentric manner.

"You Can't Take It With You" is a play conducted in a nostalgic manner with reflection on a 1930 day of life. Income tax, welfare and the WPA are examples of "problems" which took place and manage to work out as though nothing was wrong in the first place.

Even though these problems exist and perhaps some of you experience them, you have to laugh in spite of yourself or maybe even laugh at yourself in connection with those seen on stage. But you will never know unless you come and see for yourself.

There is not much time left, so fly if you have to, to the CHS auditorium and witness the greatest experience ever! Come see, "You Can't Take It With You!"

Both boys attending did excellent performances and they put a lot of hard work into their projects.

Doyle Kiser devoted a great deal of his time to a project entitled "The Observation of Characteristic Behavior of Residues Dances." Doyle stated, "The field of contestants was small with the competition being very strong; consequently, the Regional Science Fair was made very interesting."

Chuck Whitfield, the other student attending, devoted his time on the project "The Interaction of Subatomic Particles in the Nucleus." Chuck stated, "The competition was very great; I was proud to be noticed by the judges for my project."

Chuck came home with an honorable mention award. This is truly an asset not only to Chuck, but also to CHS, which is very proud of this accomplishment!

Seniors Visit State House

This six weeks Mr. Goeglein has encouraged his government students to contact and interview a state or local government official.

Sarah Knox and Mary K. Lucas were granted an interview with this district's senator, Harry Armstrong, and on April 19 these girls spent an interesting day at the State House where they gained a better understanding of the functions of state government.

There they viewed a committee hearing as well as the Senate and House in session. During their interview with Senator Armstrong, they discussed such things as lowering the voting age, vocational education, and new legislation. The climax of the trip was their introduction on the Senate floor and getting to talk briefly to the lieutenant governor.

Many of that day's activities were taped to be used later in a presentation for the government classes.

Library Aides Attend Confab At Wittenberg

By CAROLE WYLIE

"Mixed Media" was the theme of the 21st annual Ohio Student Librarian Association Conference.

The event of last Friday and Saturday was held on the campus of Wittenberg University in Springfield. Tracy Ferguson, Sharon Lemaster, and CHS librarian, Mrs. Betty Lovensheimer attended the conference. CHS was one of 15 schools to become a new member of OSLA.

Friday night was established as a time to mix with the delegates and get to know them. Everyone participated in the evening activities by making posters for candidates running for OSLA offices. Tracy and Sharon won honorable mention for their posters. Skits were also given as entertainment for the group of over 400.

Saturday morning Dr. Glenn H. Daniels, Director of University Instructional Media Center at Bowling Green State University, presented a program entitled "Creative Media in the Classroom." Dr. Daniels used three screens to give a three dimensional effect to his slides. Following this presentation a panel discussion on "Silence" in the library was held. The general consensus of 36 Ohio High Schools represented was that a library can not maintain an absolute quiet anymore.

The afternoon program included Miss Sue Brown, representing OSLA and Miss Ivana Cahill from Kent State University. Miss Cahill's program was entitled the "Do It Yourself Angle." The conclusion of the weekend conference was the installation of new officers in an impressive candlelight ceremony.

Sharon Lemaster was the delegate that did the voting for CHS. She found the entire program "very interesting with lots of good points to offer." Tracy Ferguson also found that there were many new and different ideas presented that made her think.

Next year's annual meeting will be at Capital University.

Circleville, Ohio

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Two members of last years Circleville High School championship baseball team are carrying their abilities on to the college level this season and doing quite well.

Billy Thomas and Bryce Brown, the Tigers' ace battery, have both become key men on their college squads and are making quite a name for themselves.

Bryce is an important member of the mound staff of the St. Clair County Community College in Huron, Mich. He already has two victories to his credit and is rapidly becoming the "clutch" pitcher for the St. Clair nine.

The St. Clair team has just finished a swing of the southern schools and will be in Columbus Friday and Saturday to meet the freshmen of Ohio State.

Billy is at Ellsworth Junior College in Iowa Falls, Iowa. He has impressed the coaches with his hitting power and fine defensive play and is the number one catcher on the team.

He won the backstopping job opening day when he rapped two extra bases blows good for four runs batted in and the ballgame.

They also have been on tour and Billy reports they make quite a name for themselves wherever they play.

Both schools are rated high on the list of small college baseball powers. St. Clair holds the reputation of being one of the top schools in the Michigan area.

Ellsworth is a perennial powerhouse in the state of Iowa. They have won five of the last seven junior college state titles and in 1966 finished third in the nation.

It is quite an honor for both athletes to be on these squads, let alone become key players in their first season.

We understand both young men are not only showing well on the diamond but are doing a good job in the classroom.

This is a fine example where athletic ability can provide a college education if the young man is willing to work for it.

Our little gem of information — the 1961 New York Yankees hold the one-season homerun record. They rapped American League pitching for a total of 240 round trippers.

Our "fearless" forecast — Everyone will be "Unconscious" when the "Run for the Roses" is over . . . Palmer will prove it really is a "Tournament for Champions."

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Field Of 11 In Beulah Park Diana Handicap Saturday

It may be too late for Easter and too early for Mother's Day, but Beulah Park's female contingent will fall out in its finest silks and saddles for Saturday's $15,000 added Diana Handicap.

This is the fourth running of the rich stake for Ohio-bred fillies and mares of three years or older. Previous editions of the Diana were contested at one mile on Beulah's turf course during the fall meeting. This one will be 5 1/2 furlongs on the main course.

Racing Secretary has in hand 11 nominations, including last year's winner, Flipper Dipper from the Hanover Stud Farm.

Another Hanover Stud product, Spangover, now owned by Stoneledge Farm, is top-weighted for Saturday's dash. Spangover will be asked to carry 126 pounds in an attempt to win her third of five starts this year.

SPANGOVER has two straight victories in allowance events at Latonia and Thistledown, winning $6,790 so far this season. Last year, the sturdy seven-year-old won 7 of 15 starts and more than $35,000 in purses.

Flipper Dipper has raced only twice without a win so far this year, but was in the money 15 times in 21 starts during 1970. She won the Diana as the odds-on favorite of the crowd, and has been assigned 119 pounds for Saturday's main event.

R. S. Jones Clem's Tune has been assigned third high impost of 115 pounds. She was in the money seven out of ten starts last year, winning three.

J. M. Bryan's Bold Sultana

Bracketed at 110 are B-Step Farm's Denise's Kitten, J. J. Sugar's Physical Damage, D. Warsehauer's To My Lady and Buckeye Stables Virginia Drive.

Rated at 108 pounds is Rita Timoteos Running Bold, while J. B. Buse's Candytuff and J. J. Santora's Jerry S can start at 100.

If all 11 should accept the weights and go to the post on Saturday, the total purse would be $17,200, richest event during Beulah's 30-day spring meeting which continues through May 8.

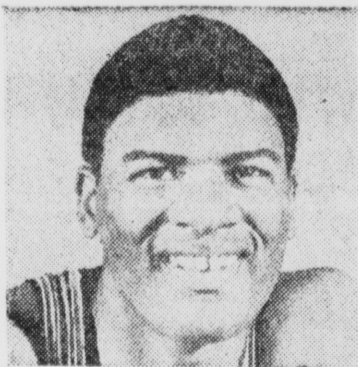

Nine other races are on Saturday's card at the Grove City track with first post time at 1:30 p.m.

University Of Miami Drops Basketball

MIAMI (AP) — The University of Miami announced Thursday it is dropping basketball from the school's intercollegiate athletic program until a permanent field house is erected on the privately endowed campus.

In making the announcement of the Board of Trustees executive committee decision, President Henry King Stanford qualified abandonment of the sport with the word "temporarily."

But he sounded pessimistic about the immediacy of construction of a fieldhouse because "something of this frightful magnitude takes time."

Baltimore Bullets Owner Pushes Pro Cage Merger

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Abe Pollin, owner of the Baltimore Bullets, apparently has as many moves as his superstar, Earl "The Pearl" Monroe.

His latest move is to get the pro basketball merger talks going again, without the knowledge of Walter Kennedy, the National Basketball Association commissioner.

Kennedy disclosed Thursday night he had just learned that Pollin has been heading a committee of four NBA owners who've been secretly meeting with several owners of the rival American Basketball Association.

Talks between the NBA and the ABA aren't really new, but this apparently is the first time the owners themselves have taken the initiative. The league offices and attorneys previously were the main parties in negotiations.

The two leagues were about to approach Congress last November for permission to merge when their talks broke down. Now, Pollin, along with Ned Irish of New York, Sam Schulman of Seattle and Herman Sarkowsky of Portland, has started the merger ball bouncing again.

After a five-hour meeting of ABA owners Thursday, Kennedy told a news conference that the talks between the NBA and ABA owners were held without knowledge of the league office.

But, he said, the idea of the talks was warmly received by the owners at the general meeting.

"The NBA owners listened to the report from the four members who have held dialogue with the ABA owners the past two weeks," Kennedy said. "The NBA owners voted to have the four owners continue to talk with the ABA."

Kennedy said the other owners offered suggestions to Pollin's group in hopes the two leagues could find a common ground to seek Congressional approval to form a single league.

"If all goes well," Kennedy said, "I think some proposal might be made to Congress before the end of the 1971 calendar year. But, in my opinion, the possibility of a merger is some time beyond that—assuming, of course, that Congress passes the necessary legislation."

The commissioner was asked if the NBA Players' Association would fight the merger as it had announced it would.

Kennedy said if the proper legislation were passed, committees from both leagues would be appointed to work out any difficulties with the players.

Anderson, Ind. (AP) —

The Indiana Pacers were loose and ready Thursday night. They showed it by physically beating down the strong Utah Stars 127-109.

The Pacer victory kept the defending American Basketball Association champions breathing in the best-of-seven series for the ABA West Division title, although trailing three games to two.

Thursday night, the Pacers stood on the brink of oblivion. They had to win to keep playing. And they did it by methodically taking apart the Stars in just the manner that Utah had in the previous two games in the series.

Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard had a determined set to his jaw after the game. He was obviously proud of the way his team came back, but he was already looking ahead to Saturday's game at Salt Lake City.

"One game was a tossup and they won it," Leonard said. "In two of the games, they were more aggressive and they won. Tonight, we were more aggressive and we won."

more determined tonight . . . and it showed."

He said, "Now we go back out there (the Pacers have lost both games on Utah's floor in this series) and you know that it's going to be tough."

Second-year guard Billy Keller stood in front of a mirror and combed his hair as he remarked, "We're mentally set now. They're going to have to beat us now. We won't beat ourselves." Several other players, standing nearby, nodded heads in agreement.

Leonard had particular good words for Mel Daniels, Warren Armstrong and Bob Netolicky.

"That Mel," Leonard said, shaking his head in wonder, "he got 27 rebounds and 27 points. He's something. And Netolicky who led all scorers with 29 points, that was his best game of the playoffs."

This was a game that the Pacers won with a quick spurt at the beginning of the second period. They outscored Utah 20-3 to take a 48-33 lead and put the Stars right out of the game. Indiana led by as many as 27 points.

Roger Brown and Keller added 23 and 22 points, respectively, while Willie Wise led Utah with 21 points, 15 in the second half.

Stargell, Pirates Smash Atlanta, 7-4

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

After giving up eight home runs in six games, the Atlanta Braves have finally learned how to pitch to Willie Stargell.

Very carefully.

The Pittsburgh fence-wrecker continued his siege on Atlanta Thursday night, ripping his 10th homer of the young season to tie a major league record for circuit smashes in April.

Stargell, himself, wasn't overly impressed although he's made a big impression on the Braves this year.

"I'm not even going to let myself think of records," said the bull-strong leftfielder. "What happens when I break a record, other than it goes into the record book? Do they make a statue of me?"

Stargell's fourth inning missile, which may still be in orbit, carried over the center field fence—more than 400 feet away. It drew an enthusiastic response from the fans at Three Rivers Stadium, but just a large yawn from big Willie.

"I've hit longer drives in Forbes Field," he said after joining Baltimore's Frank Robinson and Cincinnati's Tony Perez in the record books. Robinson hit 10 homers in April of 1969, and Perez, last year.

Truthfully, Stargell has hit longer drives in Forbes Field. He hit seven over the right field roof, which had a meager total of 18 placed there in its ancient history.

But never has he gotten away to a quicker start. As a matter of fact, he usually waked up later in the season. For instance, last year at this time he had a microscopic .063 batting average that included one homer in his two hits.

Teammate Richie Hebner appears to be more excited about Stargell's blazing getaway than Stargell.

"Stargell's homers mean we're winning . . . and that's important," said Pittsburgh's third baseman, who also helped out things Thursday night with three RBI on two triples and a single.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia 5-2 and Houston topped Chicago 6-1 in Thursday's only other National League games. In a light American League card, it was Chicago 4, Milwaukee 2.

"I'm not even going to let myself think of records," said the bull-strong leftfielder. "What happens when I break a record, other than it goes into the record book? Do they make a statue of me?"

Stargell's fourth inning missile, which may still be in orbit, carried over the center field fence—more than 400 feet away. It drew an enthusiastic response from the fans at Three Rivers Stadium, but just a large yawn from big Willie.

"I've hit longer drives in Forbes Field," he said after joining Baltimore's Frank Robinson and Cincinnati's Tony Perez in the record books. Robinson hit 10 homers in April of 1969, and Perez, last year.

Truthfully, Stargell has hit longer drives in Forbes Field. He hit seven over the right field roof, which had a meager total of 18 placed there in its ancient history.

But never has he gotten away to a quicker start. As a matter of fact, he usually waked up later in the season. For instance, last year at this time he had a microscopic .063 batting average that included one homer in his two hits.

Teammate Richie Hebner appears to be more excited about Stargell's blazing getaway than Stargell.

"Stargell's homers mean we're winning . . . and that's important," said Pittsburgh's third baseman, who also helped out things Thursday night with three RBI on two triples and a single.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia 5-2 and Houston topped Chicago 6-1 in Thursday's only other National League games. In a light American League card, it was Chicago 4, Milwaukee 2.

Stargell, himself, wasn't overly impressed although he's made a big impression on the Braves this year.

Circleville, Ohio

Willie's Dillies

By BILL McGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Two members of last years Circleville High School championship baseball team are carrying their abilities on to the college level this season and doing quite well.

Billy Thomas and Bryce Brown, the Tigers' ace battery, have both become key men on their college squads and are making quite a name for themselves.

Bryce is an important member of the mound staff of the St. Clair County Community College in Huron, Mich. He already has two victories to his credit and is rapidly becoming the "clutch" pitcher for the St. Clair nine.

The St. Clair team has just finished a swing of the southern schools and will be in Columbus Friday and Saturday to meet the freshmen of Ohio State.

Billy is at Ellsworth Junior College in Iowa Falls, Iowa. He has impressed the coaches with his hitting power and fine defensive play and is the number one catcher on the team.

He won the backstopping job opening day when he rapped two extra bases blows good for four runs batted in and the ballgame.

They also have been on tour and Billy reports they make quite a name for themselves wherever they play.

Both schools are rated high on the list of small college baseball powers. St. Clair holds the reputation of being one of the top schools in the Michigan area.

Ellsworth is a perennial powerhouse in the state of Iowa. They have won five of the last seven junior college state titles and in 1966 finished third in the nation.

It is quite an honor for both athletes to be on these squads, let alone become key players in their first season.

We understand both young men are not only showing well on the diamond but are doing a good job in the classroom.

This is a fine example where athletic ability can provide a college education if the young man is willing to work for it.

Circleville can be proud of Billy and Bryce — we certainly are.

Our little gem of information — the 1961 New York Yankees hold the one-season homerun record. They rapped American League pitching for a total of 240 round trippers.

Our "fearless" forecast — Everyone will be "Unconscious" when the "Run for the Roses" is over . . . Palmer will prove it really is a "Tournament for Champions."

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Field Of 11 In Beulah Park Diana Handicap Saturday

It may be too late for Easter and too early for Mother's Day, but Beulah Park's female contingent will fall out in its finest silks and saddles for Saturday's $15,000 added Diana Handicap.

This is the fourth running of the rich stake for Ohio-bred fillies and mares of three years or older. Previous editions of the Diana were contested at one mile on Beulah's turf course during the fall meeting. This one will be 3 1/2 furlongs on the main course.

Racing Secretary has in hand 11 nominations, including last year's winner, Flipper Dipper from the Hanover Stud Farm.

Another Hanover Stud product, Spangover, now owned by Stoneledge Farm, is top-weighted for Saturday's dash. Spangover will be asked to carry 126 pounds in an attempt to win her third of five starts this year.

SPANGOVER has two straight victories in allowance events at Latonia and Thistledown, winning $6,790 so far this season. Last year, the sturdy seven-year-old won 7 of 15 starts and more than $35,000 in purses.

Flipper Dipper has raced only twice without a win so far this year, but was in the money 15 times in 21 starts during 1970. She won the Diana as the odds-on favorite of the crowd, and has been assigned 119 pounds for Saturday's main event.

R. S. Jones Clem's Tune has been assigned third high impost of 115 pounds. She was in the money seven out of ten starts last year, winning three.

J. M. Bryan's Bold Sultana

Bracketed at 110 are B-Step Farm's Denise's Kitten, J. J. Sugar's Physical Damage, D. Warsehauer's To My Lady and Buckeye Stables Virginia Drive.

Rated at 108 pounds is Rita Timoteos Running Bold, while J. B. Buse's Candytuft and J. J. Santora's Jerry S can start at 100.

If all 11 should accept the weights and go to the post on Saturday, the total purse would be $17,200, richest event during Beulah's 30-day spring meeting which continues through May 8.

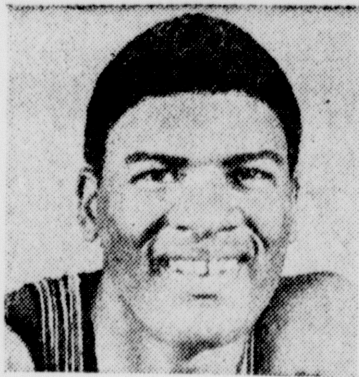

Nine other races are on Saturday's card at the Grove City track with first post time at 1:30 p.m.

University Of Miami Drops Basketball

MIAMI (AP) — The University of Miami announced Thursday it is dropping basketball from the school's intercollegiate athletic program until a permanent field house is erected on the privately endowed campus.

In making the announcement of the Board of Trustees executive committee decision, President Henry King Stanford qualified abandonment of the sport with the word "temporarily."

But he sounded pessimistic about the immediacy of construction of a fieldhouse because "something of this frightful magnitude takes time."

Baltimore Bullets Owner Pushes Pro Cage Merger

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Abe Pollin, owner of the Baltimore Bullets, apparently has as many moves as his superstar, Earl "The Pearl" Monroe.

His latest move is to get the pro basketball merger talks going again, without the knowledge of Walter Kennedy, the National Basketball Association commissioner.

Kennedy disclosed Thursday night he had just learned that Pollin has been heading a committee of four NBA owners who've been secretly meeting with several owners of the rival American Basketball Association.

Talks between the NBA and the ABA aren't really new, but this apparently is the first time the owners themselves have taken the initiative. The league offices and attorneys previously were the main parties in negotiations.

The two leagues were about to approach Congress last November for permission to merge when their talks broke down. Now, Pollin, along with Ned Irish of New York, Sam Schulman of Seattle and Herman Sarkowsky of Portland, has started the merger ball bouncing again.

After a five-hour meeting of NBA owners Thursday, Kennedy told a news conference that the talks between the NBA and ABA owners were held without knowledge of the league office. But, he said, the idea of the talks was warmly received by the owners at the general meeting.

"The NBA owners listened to the report from the four members who have held dialogue with the ABA owners the past two weeks," Kennedy said. "The NBA owners voted to have the four owners continue to talk with the ABA."

Kennedy said the other owners offered suggestions to Pollin's group in hopes the two leagues could find a common ground to seek Congressional approval to form a single league.

"If all goes well," Kennedy said, "I think some proposal might be made to Congress before the end of the 1971 calendar year. But, in my opinion, the possibility of a merger is some time beyond that—assuming, of course, that Congress passes the necessary legislation."

The commissioner was asked if the NBA Players' Association would fight the merger as it had announced it would.

Kennedy said if the proper legislation were passed, committees from both leagues would be appointed to work out any difficulties with the players.

HAMPTON, Va. (AP) — The Kentucky Colonels hope to take another page from the Virginia Squires defensive handbook when the two tangle tonight in the fifth game of their American Basketball Association playoff finals.

"We played defense like they usually do," Kentucky's precocious rookie Dan Issel said of the Colonels 128-110 win Wednesday night that evened the best-of-seven series at two games apiece.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, losers of six of their last eight games, try to get back in the win column here tonight against the Kansas City Royals.

The Indians, who are batting under .200 as a team, were fourth by Cincinnati's Greg Garette Thursday in a 4-1 exhibition loss to the Reds.

Pacers Back; Stop Stars, 127-109

ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — The Indiana Pacers were loose and ready Thursday night. They showed it by physically beating down the strong Utah Stars 127-109.

The Pacer victory kept the defending American Basketball Association champions breathing in the best-of-seven series for the ABA West Division title, although trailing three games to two.

Thursday night, the Pacers stood on the brink of oblivion. They had to win to keep playing. And they did it by methodically taking apart the Stars in just the manner that Utah had taken the previous two games in the series.

Indiana Coach Bobby Leonard had a determined set to his jaw after the game. He was obviously proud of the way his team came back, but he was already looking ahead to Saturday's game at Salt Lake City. "One game was a tossup and they won it," Leonard said. "In two of the games, they were more aggressive and they won. Tonight, we were more aggressive and we won."

"When both teams get aggressive at the same time, that's when you get a tough ball game," He added, "We got a little bit more determined tonight . . . and it showed."

He said, "Now we go back out there (the Pacers have lost both games on Utah's floor in this series) and you know that it's going to be tough."

Second-year guard Billy Keller stood in front of a mirror and combed his hair as he remarked, "We're mentally set now. They're going to have to beat us now. We won't beat ourselves." Several other players, standing nearby, nodded heads in agreement.

Leonard had particular good words for Mel Daniels, Warren Armstrong and Bob Netolicky.

"That Mel," Leonard said, shaking his head in wonder, "he got 27 rebounds and 27 points. He's something. And Netolicky who led all scorers with 29 points, that was his best game of the playoffs."

This was a game that the Pacers won with a quick spurt at the beginning of the second period. They outscored Utah 20-3 to take a 48-33 lead and put the Stars right out of the game. Indiana led by as many as 27 points.

Roger Brown and Keller added 23 and 22 points, respectively, while Willie Wise led Utah with 21 points, 15 in the second half.

Stargell, Pirates Smash Atlanta, 7-4

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

After giving up eight home runs in six games, the Atlanta Braves have finally learned how to pitch to Willie Stargell. Very carefully.

The Pittsburgh fence-wrecker continued his siege on Atlanta Thursday night, ripping his 10th homer of the young season to tie a major league record for circuit smashes in April.

Stargell, himself, wasn't overly impressed although he's made a big impression on the Braves this year. "I'm not even going to let myself think of records," said the bull-strong leftfielder. "What happens when I break a record, other than it goes into the record book? Do they make a statue of me?"

Stargell's fourth inning missile, which may still be in orbit, carried over the center field fence—more than 400 feet away. It drew an enthusiastic response from the fans at Three Rivers Stadium, but just a large yawn from big Willie.

"I've hit longer drives in Forbes Field," he said after joining Baltimore's Frank Robinson and Cincinnati's Tony Perez in the record books. Robinson hit 10 homers in April of 1969, and Perez, last year.

Truthfully, Stargell has hit longer drives in Forbes Field. He hit seven over the right field roof, which had a meager total of 18 placed there in its ancient history. But never has he gotten away to a quicker start. As a matter of fact, he usually waked up later in the season. For instance, last year at this time he had a microscopic .063 batting average that included one homer in his two hits.

Teammate Richie Hebner appears to be more excited about Stargell's blazing getaway than Stargell. "Sturgell's homers mean we're winning . . . and that's important," said Pittsburgh's third baseman, who also helped out things Thursday night with three RBI on two triples and a single.

St. Louis beat Philadelphia 5-2 and Houston topped Chicago 6-1 in Thursday's only other National League games. In a light American League card, it was Chicago 4, Milwaukee 2.

and Oakland 7, California 3.

Pittsburgh broke it open early, scoring six runs in the first four innings. Stargell's leadoff homer in the fourth off Ron Reed and Hebner's run-producing triple in the same frame gave the Pirates a 6-0 cushion. Hebner produced another run in the sixth with another triple.

Steve Blass pitched seven strong innings, but needed eighth inning relief help from Dave Giusti after three straight Atlanta singles.

Left-hander Steve Carlton, off to his best year ever, handcuffed Philadelphia on six hits to give St. Louis its third straight victory.

Carlton gave up single runs in the seventh, when the Phillies scored on only one hit and in the ninth, when the Phils reached the tyingouthpaw for three straight singles.

Larry Dierker pitched a five-hitter and Bob Watson crashed a two-run homer against a stiff wind in the sixth inning for Houston. Dierker took a three-hit shutout into the ninth, but the Cubs broke through for their only run on Glenn Beckert's double, a walk, Ron Santo's single and Joe Pepitone's sacrifice fly.

Nicklaus And Barber Tied For Champ Tourney Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — When Jack Nicklaus lost the Masters golf tournament to Charles Coody two weeks ago, it might have cost the rest of the touring pros a bundle of money.

"I no longer have a shot at the grand slam, so I decided it's time to get back to my regular schedule, to get back on the tour," Nicklaus said Thursday after taking a share of the first round lead in the $165,000 Tournament of Champions.

He and Miller Barber matched 69s on the extremely demanding La Costa Country Club course, a 7,114 yard, par 72 layout.

With Nicklaus back on the tour, he'll be taking his usual king-sized bite out of the regular weekly purses. Had he won the Masters, he hinted, he may have played a very, very restricted schedule.

"If I had won the Masters, I probably wouldn't be here," said the Golden Bear, the PGA champion who had announced his hopes of making a sweep of the world's four major titles—the PGA, the Masters and the U.S. and British Opens—in a single year.

"If I'd won the Masters I probably wouldn't have played much until (the U.S. Open at Merion in) June.

"But it's no longer possible, so I'll get back to my regular schedule."

Defending champion Frank Beard, Canadian George Knudson and South African Gary Player were one stroke off the pace at 70.

Arnold Palmer, the season's leading money winner and the pretourney favorite, bogeyed the last hole for a 71 and was tied at that figure with Dave Stockton and Bobby Nichols.

But most of the elite field of 35 tour event winners from the last 12 months had major difficulties with the demanding course. More than half of them, 20, were at 75.

Canadiens Lose 6-3; Player Mad

MONTREAL (AP) — Most of the Montreal Canadiens trudged off the ice muttering to themselves after their 6-3 loss Thursday night to the Minnesota North Stars, which evened the best-of-7 Stanley Cup semifinal series at 1-1.

John Ferguson did not accompany his teammates to the dressing room. He had preceded his mates into the dressing room, 24 seconds before the final siren wailed. Ferguson was angry—very angry.

Throughout the third period, Montreal Coach Al MacNeil benched the 32-year-old left winger in favor of Bobby Sheehan. Ferguson banged his stick on the boards each time his shift came up and he had to sit on the bench.

A couple of times he turned around and snarled something at the Montreal coach and then, after the North Stars scored their sixth goal at 19:36, he

Braves' Power Attack Blasts Union Furnace

Blankenship Hurls Hitless Ball For LE

Rick Blankenship hurled a no hitter and led the Logan Elm batting attack as the Braves crushed Starr-Washington (Union Furnace), 18-2, in a rescheduled game at the Washington field.

Blankenship fanned 14 hitters, walked five and hit a couple batters as he fashioned his masterpiece.

Washington gained its two runs on a combination of walks and errors on the part of the Braves.

Logan Elm displayed an awesome power barrage for a total of 16 safeties. Blankenship provided a homer and two singles. Gary Francis had a triple, double and single and Mark Justus ripped Washington pitching for a triple, double and single.

STARR-Washington committed nine errors in the contest which contributed to the Braves totals.

Logan Elm put the game away in a hurry with five runs in the first, four in the second, four in the third, two more in the fourth frame and added single markers in the fifth and sixth stanzas.

The Braves are now 5-4 for the season and will host Teays Valley today and Westfall on Monday.

Reds Win Exhibition With Tribe

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds took the first of two annual exhibition baseball games with the Cleveland Indians 3-1 Thursday night but a rematch is scheduled in Cleveland June 7. Both games are for charity.

Rookie Reds pitcher Greg Garet gave up only four hits to the Indians and shut them out for eight innings until Charley Bradford slammed a four-bagger over the left field wall opening the ninth inning.

Manager Sparky Anderson was pleased with Garet's performance.

"That's the best he's pitched all year," said Anderson. "His snap is getting better. He's throwing a lot more hard stuff." Johnny Bench and Pete Rose, who made token first inning appearances, accounted for the team's first score. Rose singled, moved to second on Tony Perez' sacrifice fly and scored on a single by Bench.

Ty Cline scored in the sixth on a double by Dave Concepcion and Concepcion came home on a wild pitch by Cleveland Pitcher Rick Austin.

Jim Wiechers Leads Clash

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A little known golfer can be expected to lead a satellite tournament, so what's surprising about Jim Wiechers being out front going into the second round of the $60,000 Tallahassee Open today?

One thing surprising is that Wiechers' 32-32-64 is five strokes better than Lee Trevino, whose name is a household word in golf circles and who was leading money winner of 1970.

True, Trevino had to battle rough weather that interrupted play three times while Wiechers finished before the thunderstorms. But the way Wiechers' putter was working, he might have played his record-setting round under any conditions. He had eight one-putt greens.

He finished fifth in the Bob Hope Classic and with nearly $14,000 won this year is almost up to his last year's total of just under $18,000.

His best year was 1969, when he won $45,000 and captured the West End Classic.

Wiechers' nearest challengers in the first round were former Masters champ Gay Brewer, former national amateur champ Bob Dickson, bubbling young Randy Wolff and veteran Bert Yancey. Each had 66, six-under-par for the 7,124-yard Killdeer Golf and Country Club course.

With 67 players below par 72, the battle to survive the cut after today's round was rugged. Eight were at 68 and 16 at 69—a mixture of veterans and younger players striving for the $12,000 first prize here and escape to the much richer Tournament of Champions next year.

Ali-Chamberlain Match Called Off

HOUSTON (AP) — Muhammad Ali was prepared to sign for $1 million but Wilt Chamberlain's last minute demand for a $500,000 tax free guarantee canceled Thursday's scheduled contract signings for a 12-round Astrodome match between the former heavyweight boxing champion and the basketball great.

Even before the blowup, boxing and basketball officials had said the match originally conceived as a title bout would make a joke of boxing or basketball or both.

His hitting is not what he expects it to be yet but he has 16 in the first 11 games of the season.

stomped off the Montreal bench and into the dressing room.

On his way to the dressing room, he smashed his stick, rammed his fist into the stick rack and once he entered the room, stomped around for a few minutes before the door finally was closed by the ushers.

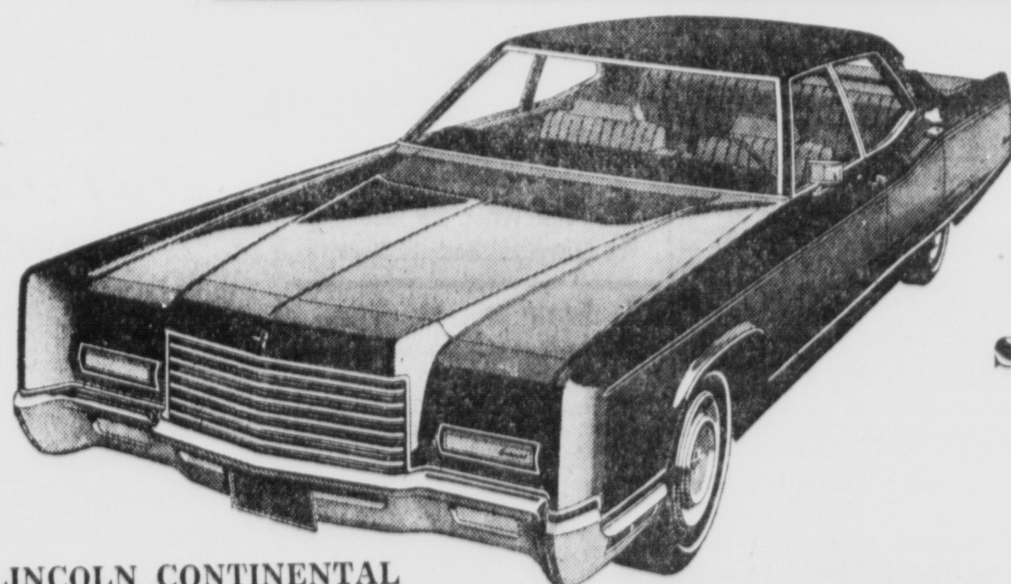

Finally, when reporters entered the Montreal room, Ferguson and several other Montreal players were nowhere to be seen.

Court Faces Northern Integration Test Case

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will have an opportunity in the next few weeks to indicate whether it intends to strike at school segregation as forcefully in the North as it has in the South.

The test will come when the justices decide whether to hear cases involving Cincinnati and Chicago suburbs that have waited on the docket along with Southern school cases while the court pondered the Charlotte, N.C.; Mobile, Ala.; and Athens, Ga.; plans ruled on last Tuesday.

The Cincinnati case, filed last May by the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, calls for one desegregation standard for all public schools, North and South. The appeal says there is cause for action in that 47 of the city's 96 public schools are predominantly white and another 20 predominantly black.

The Chicago-Cook County case is an appeal by school officials from orders by federal Judge Julius J. Hoffman that they restructure the system and bus young children to accomplish integration. Hoffman was backed up by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

In unanimous school decisions this week the court approved mass busing, gerrymandering of attendance zones and the use of racial ratio as legitimate means of eliminating dual systems.

The opinions by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger contained a few hints of aid for civil rights lawyers in the North where schools are segregated not by law, as they once were in the South, but by racial housing patterns.

The court has never heard a Northern school case.

Last summer, when the justices first agreed to review the situations in Charlotte, Mobile and Athens, it was expected the ultimate decisions would have strong implications for the North.

Cincinnati, like most Northern cities, has black neighborhoods, white neighborhoods, and some in transition from white to black.

The U.S. appeals court in the city, ruling in a case now eight years old, said segregation in the school stemmed from these housing patterns. Boards of education were held not responsible for such situations.

The NAACP chapter, representing several black children, contends the board has a constitutional duty to balance the racial composition of the schools.

The Supreme Court in Tuesday's day's rulings said the existence of a few all-black schools in a district did not necessarily mean officials were violating the law. Also, the court said, not all schools in a desegregated district need be balanced racially, though it is all right for judges to use racial ratio as guidelines.

The question is, even assuming the same rules apply in the North, can Cincinnati officials be held accountable for the city's school segregation.

The Cook County school district in the second case covers mostly black Phoenix, all-white South Holland and a small portion of white Harvey. The district was the target of the first filed by then Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark in 1968.

No rain is expected.

Fair weather is forecast for the weekend. Temperatures will continue cool through Sunday with afternoon readings in the 50s and lower 60s and lows in the 30s and low 40s.

Hotel Is Sued For $1.3 Million In Fatal Blaze

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Hotel Pick Carter here was sued for $1.3 million Thursday for the death April 13 of the wife and daughter of Russell F. Carlson, stage manager of the rock musical "Hair," during a fire.

Five other persons were killed and eight injured in the fire in the 500-room hotel. The fire is still under investigation.

Carlson, of St. Louis, charged in his Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court suit that the hotel was negligent in the death of his wife, Carol Anne, 23, and 11-month daughter, Corinne Susan. They were staying with Carlson while the musical played in Cleveland.

Carlson asked $1 million punitive damages, $250,000 for his wife's death, $25,000 for her pain and suffering, and $25,000 for his daughter's death and $10,000 for her suffering.

REA Gets Injunction Against Strikers
NEW YORK (AP) — REA Express announced today that it had obtained a federal court restraining order calling for an end to the four-day-old strike against the company by the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks.

A company spokesman said the court action in the contract rules dispute followed "fruitless day-long settlement attempts" under the auspices of the National Mediation Board in Washington.

Vates said the union refused to withdraw the complaint filed with the National Labor Relations Board a year ago and negotiations have not progressed.

Some 1,680 employees walked off the job Thursday shutting down operations. Their contract ran out April 3. The plant employs about 2,300 workers.

Union Remains Firm In Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Robert Vates, president of Local 178 of the United Rubber Workers, which struck the Dayton Tire Rubber Co. Thursday, said the "stumbling block" is the firm's insistence that the union drop an unfair labor practices complaint.

Vates said the union refused to withdraw the complaint filed with the National Labor Relations Board a year ago and negotiations have not progressed.

Some 1,680 employees walked off the job Thursday shutting down operations. Their contract ran out April 3. The plant employs about 2,300 workers.

Nix Black Demands At Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Acting City Manager Jack Kirsch agreed that a community relations committee between Negroes and police would be encouraging but rejected five other demands.

Kirsch said Thursday the police division would support relationships with the black community in the second and fourth wards. He also agreed to further meetings with black community leaders but at City Hall only.

Kenneth McDowell, president of the Hamilton branch of the NAACP presented a list of requests to Kirsch last Friday following several days of disorders in the Second Ward.

Kirsch said Thursday it would be "legally impossible" to appoint seven black policemen to the force within 10 to 30 days. He said black recruits had been sought, however.

He rejected charges that police had used "Gestapo tactics" in the black community and said "it is our finding that members of the police division have used much restraint."

A total of 15 persons were arrested in disturbances last Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Six persons were hurt Monday, three policemen injured Wednesday night and a youth was shot by two men Friday night.

Kirsch also rejected a request that police stop cordoning off the second ward during trouble periods and that police not wear crash helmets. Kirsch said he could not guarantee that police canine units would not be used again.

Saltcreek Sets Registration

land and rights-of-way for hiking and horseback riding along the Buckeye Trail. The trail begins in Cincinnati and winds through southern and eastern Ohio to Mentor Headlands State Park on Lake Erie.

Sen. Ralph Regula, R-29 Navarre, the measure's sponsor, said the bill was introduced to protect the continuity of the existing trail.

Much of that route already utilizes public property, but much also crosses private land.

Regula said changes in ownership of that private land and changes in agreements with the state have sometimes required relocation of the trail.

Layoffs Bring Charity Work

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The Nordson Corp. in the Lorain County community of Amherst has solved a seasonal layoff problem for its employees by paying them to do work for charitable organizations.

Eric T. Nord, company president, said Thursday that charitable work assignments have been accepted by 16 of the 30 men presently on layoff status pending a work-force adjustment.

He said the men would begin Monday in four-man teams assigned to various repair and maintenance jobs for agencies supported by United Community Services of Greater Lorain County, Inc.

"Hopefully, our people will be able to perform work for agencies not normally done due to budget reductions," said Nord.

Who will come to the Scioto Society's outdoor production of "Tecumseh"?

An available audience for such a drama in the Scioto Valley sector can be rather accurately determined. Using the count of urban populations (towns of 5,000 or more) within the average draw area, with percentage factors learned from other outdoor dramas, it is possible to arrive at some rather sound figures.

The average draw area for an outdoor drama during its initial stages is roughly equivalent to a 200-mile radius, or a 400-mile round trip, when the drama is promoted throughout that area. This is based only upon average driving distance.

An up-to-date approach to tourism from population centers exceeding this 200 mile limit involves visiting travel agents and travel writers throughout the eastern sector of the United States and, to a limited degree, eastern Canada.

313,376; Kentucky 894,292; Indiana 1,703,574; Tennessee $139,735; Ohio 6,424,982; Pennsylvania 1,904,526 and West Virginia 604,458. This is a total urban population of 14,578,183.

A sizeable Canadian population exists in this area, but because of ethnic and historical differences there is no assurance that attendance in this area would follow normal patterns, even though the Department of Demography at Toronto expressed interest in the drama when discussing population densities with Society officials.

Although many good four-lane roads exist through mountain areas at this time, a psychological barrier to travel from the eastern states still exists and must be taken into consideration. The four-direction road net radiating from Chillicothe will insure primary support from Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, figuring an urban population total of 9 million in round figures.

This favorable point is that Ohio autos are in the top five states represented in the parking lots of productions from Williamsburg, Va. to St. Augustine, Fla. There are thousands of people in Ohio who see and enjoy outdoor drama in other states on a regular basis. This trend has been apparent for ten years, since the 1959 opening of "The Stephen Foster Story" at Bardonia, Ky. to some 65,000 people (one per cent of the urban population within 200 miles).

UNTIL the reasons are known for the Dover-New Philadelphia report of just one-half per cent of expected attendance, this figure cannot be ignored. However, the one per cent normal expectancy seems possible from the results in the first year at other dramas throughout the nation.

For their own planning purposes, the Scioto Society Inc. has accepted the probable percentage as being three-fourths per cent of the nine million in a tri-state area. This figures to be 67,500.

With this conservative figure, the Society will look forward to audiences which come from the other states in the area as bonus attendance. If the drama draws even the figure 67,500, the economic impact will be greater than the total impact derived by Canyon, Texas, where 66,100 people brought a $9,254,000 impact to the panhandle region.

This is why the term "region" is expressed so often in relation to outdoor drama. There is no way Ross County alone could cope with this large an increase in tourist traffic. Its effects would truly be felt from Columbus to Portsmouth.

Obviously Pennsylvania, with quick access by interstate highway, Tennessee, Michigan and West Virginia will supply additional members to the audience, but Scioto Society are concerned with basic figures and probabilities.

One favorable and one unfavorable bit of evidence must be added to the considerations of average audience attendance. The unfavorable one is that although the new outdoor drama at Dover-New Philadelphia opened this past season with a one per cent average audience expectancy of 63,000 persons, it actually played to only 27,000, or less than one-half of one per cent. A new production opened this year in Beckley, W. Va. with the well-known Hatfield and McCoy legend as its story base and played to 68,000

BOTH the immediately available audience, that within a single hour's drive of the amphitheatre, and the projection of the draw area audience are important in estimating the budget and size of the auditorium of the amphitheatre.

Twenty-four towns of 5,000 or more population are within an hour's drive of Chillicothe. These communities have a total population of 862,676 based on 1960 census figures.

About four per cent of this population can be considered the maximum number that will be initially interested in seeing the outdoor drama. This comes to 34,507 people.

Obviously the closer to the drama location, the greater the attendance. It will probably range from about nine per cent near Chillicothe to about 2.8 per cent at the edges of the one hour drive zone.

Under normal circumstances this 34,507 people will make up about 50 per cent of the first year attendance at the amphitheatre. Some 30 per cent of the attendance will come from the rest of Ohio in the first year, and the remaining attendance will be from out of state.

Slowly, over the first five years of the play's existence, this pattern will have completely reversed, as those close to the drama see it once or twice and as the drama's reputation spreads farther away.

IN studying the average draw area of the 200 - mile radius, Scioto Society found the following urban population: Michigan 2,593,330; Virginia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court will have an opportunity in the next few weeks to indicate whether it intends to strike at school segregation as forcefully in the North as it has in the South.

The test will come when the justices decide whether to hear cases involving Cincinnati and Chicago suburbs that have waited on the docket along with Southern school cases while the court pondered the Charlotte, N.C.; Mobile, Ala.; and Athens, Ga.; plans ruled on last Tuesday.

The Cincinnati case, filed last May by the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, calls for one desegregation standard for all public schools, North and South. The appeal says there is cause for action in that 47 of the city's 96 public schools are predominantly white and another 29 predominantly black.

The Chicago-Cook County case is an appeal by school officials from orders by federal Judge Julius J. Hoffman that they restructure the system and bus young children to accomplish integration. Hoffman was backed up by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Chicago.

In unanimous school decisions this week the court approved mass busing, gerrymandering of attendance zones and the use of racial ratio as legitimate means of eliminating dual systems.

The opinions by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger contained a few hints of aid for civil rights lawyers in the North where schools are segregated not by law, as they once were in the South, but by racial housing patterns.

The court has never heard a Northern school case.

Last summer, when the justices first agreed to review the situations in Charlotte, Mobile and Athens, it was expected the ultimate decisions would have strong implications for the North.

Cincinnati, like most Northern cities, has black neighborhoods, white neighborhoods, and some in transition from white to black.

The U.S. appeals court in the city, ruling in a case now eight years old, said segregation in the school stemmed from these housing patterns. Boards of education were held not responsible for such situations.

The NAACP chapter, representing several black children, contends the board has a constitutional duty to balance the racial composition of the schools.

The Supreme Court in Tuesday's rulings said the existence of a few all-black schools in a district did not necessarily mean officials were violating the law. Also, the court said, not all schools in a segregated district need be balanced racially, though it is all right for judges to use racial ratio as guidelines.

The question is, even assuming the same rules apply in the North, can Cincinnati officials be held accountable for the city's school segregation.

The Cook County school district in the second case covers mostly black Phoenix, all-white South Holland and a small portion of white Harvey. The district was the target of the first filed by then Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark in 1968.

Union Remains Firm In Dayton

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Robert Vates, president of Local 178 of the United Rubber Workers, which struck the Dayton Tire Rubber Co. Thursday, said the "stumbling block" is the firm's insistence that the union drop an unfair labor practices complaint.

Vates said the union refused to withdraw the complaint filed with the National Labor Relations Board a year ago and negotiations have not progressed.

Some 1,680 employees walked off the job Thursday shutting down operations. Their contract ran out April 3. The plant employs about 2,300 workers.

Nix Black Demands At Hamilton

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Acting City Manager Jack Kirsch agreed that a community relations committee between Negroes and police would be encouraging but rejected five other demands.

Kirsch said Thursday the police division would support relationships with the black community in the second and fourth wards. He also agreed to further meetings with black community leaders but at City Hall only.

Kenneth McDowell, president of the Hamilton branch of the NAACP presented a list of requests to Kirsch last Friday following several days of disorders in the Second Ward.

Kirsch said Thursday it would be "legally impossible" to appoint seven black policemen to the force within 10 to 30 days. He said black recruits had been sought, however.

He rejected charges that police had used "Gestapo tactics" in the black community and said "it is our finding that members of the police division have used much restraint."

A total of 15 persons were arrested in disturbances last Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Six persons were hurt Monday, three policemen injured Wednesday night and a youth was shot by two men Friday night.

Kirsch also rejected a request that police stop cordoning off the second ward during trouble periods and that police not wear crash helmets. Kirsch said he could not guarantee that police canine units would not be used again.

land and rights-of-way for hiking and horseback riding along the Buckeye Trail. The trail begins in Cincinnati and winds through southern and eastern Ohio to Mentor Headlands State Park on Lake Erie.

Sen. Ralph Regula, R-29 Navarre, the measure's sponsor, said the bill was introduced to protect the continuity of the existing trail.

Much of that route already utilizes public property, but much also crosses private land. Regula said changes in ownership of that private land and changes in agreements with the state have sometimes required relocation of the trail.

Layoffs Bring Charity Work

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — The Nordson Corp. in the Lorain County community of Amherst has solved a seasonal layoff problem for its employees by paying them to do work for charitable organizations.

Eric T. Nord, company president, said Thursday that charitable work assignments have been accepted by 16 of the 20 men presently on layoff status pending a work-force adjustment.

He said the men would begin Monday in four-man teams assigned to various repair and maintenance jobs for agencies supported by United Community Services of Greater Lorain County, Inc.

"Hopefully, our people will be able to perform work for agencies not normally done due to budget reductions," said Nord.

Who will come to the Scioto Society's outdoor production of "Tecumseh"?

An available audience for such a drama in the Scioto Valley sector can be rather accurately determined. Using the count of urban populations (towns of 5,000 or more) within the average draw area, with percentage factors learned from other outdoor dramas, it is possible to arrive at some rather sound figures.

The average draw area for an outdoor drama during its initial stages is roughly equivalent to a 200-mile radius, or a 400-mile round trip, when the drama is promoted throughout that area. This is based only upon average driving distance.

An up-to-date approach to tourism from population centers exceeding this 200 mile limit involves visiting travel agents and travel writers throughout the eastern sector of the United States and, to a limited degree, eastern Canada.

BOTH the immediately available audience, that within a single hour's drive of the amphitheatre, and the projection of the draw area audience are important in estimating the budget and size of the auditorium of the amphitheatre.

Twenty-four towns of 5,000 or more population are within an hour's drive of Chillicothe. These communities have a total population of 862,676 based on 1960 census figures.

About four per cent of this population can be considered the maximum number that will be initially interested in seeing the outdoor drama. This comes to 34,507 people.

Obviously the closer to the drama location, the greater the attendance. It will probably range from about nine per cent near Chillicothe to about 2.8 per cent at the edges of the one hour drive zone.

Under normal circumstances this 34,507 people will make up about 50 per cent of the first year attendance at the amphitheatre. Some 30 per cent of the attendance will come from the rest of Ohio in the first year, and the remaining attendance will be from out of state.

Slowly, over the first five years of the play's existence, this pattern will have completely reversed, as those close to the drama see it once or twice and as the drama's reputation spreads farther away.

313,376; Kentucky 894,292; Indiana 1,703,574; Tennessee $139,735; Ohio 6,424,982; Pennsylvania 1,904,526; West Virginia 604,458. This is a total urban population of 14,578,183.

A sizeable Canadian population exists in this area, but because of ethnic and historical differences there is no assurance that attendance in this area would follow normal patterns, even though the Department of Demography at Toronto expressed interest in the drama when discussing population densities with Society officials.

Although many good four-lane roads exist through mountain areas at this time, a psychological barrier to travel from the eastern states still exists and must be taken into consideration. The four-direction road net radiating from Chillicothe will insure primary support from Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, figuring an urban population total of 9 million in round figures.

Obviously Pennsylvania, with quick access by interstate highway, Tennessee, Michigan and West Virginia will supply additional members to the audience, but Scioto Society are concerned with basic figures and probabilities.

One favorable and one unfavorable bit of evidence must be added to the considerations of average audience attendance. The unfavorable one is that although the new outdoor drama at Dover-New Philadelphia opened this past season with a one per cent average audience expectancy of 63,000 persons, it actually played to only 27,000, or less than one-half of one per cent. A new production opened this year in Beckley, W. Va., with the well-known Hatfield and McCoy legend as its story base and played to 68,000 persons, or a one per cent equivalent.

This favorable point is that Ohio autos are in the top five states represented in the parking lots of productions from Williamsburg, Va., to St. Augustine, Fla. There are thousands of people in Ohio who see and enjoy outdoor drama in other states on a regular basis. This trend has been apparent for ten years, since the 1959 opening of "The Stephen Foster Story" at Bardonia, Ky. to some 65,000 people (one per cent of the urban population within 200 miles).

UNTIL the reasons are known for the Dover-New Philadelphia report of just one-half per cent of expected attendance, this figure cannot be ignored. However, the one per cent normal expectancy seems possible from the results in the first year at other dramas throughout the nation.

For their own planning purposes, the Scioto Society Inc. has accepted the probable percentage as being three-fourths per cent of the nine million in a tri-state area. This figures to be 67,500.

With this conservative figure, the Society will look forward to audiences which come from the other states in the area as bonus attendance. If the drama draws even the figure 67,500, the economic impact will be greater than the total impact derived by Canyon, Texas, where 66,100 people brought a $9,254,000 impact to the panhandle region.

This is why the term "region" is expressed so often in relation to outdoor drama. There is no way Ross County alone could cope with this large an increase in tourist traffic. Its effects would truly be felt from Columbus to Portsmouth.
